

OPENS NEW FIGHT ON BOOZE

RAISE THE SIDEWALKS—What shall we do with our streets, now that they have become inadequate to move the traffic?

New York solved it by making three-story streets—the "elevated", the surface traffic and the "tube" or subway. Doubtless all considerable cities will have to come to it, at least to two-story, and finally three-story streets.

But why do it upsidedown, as New York did and as other cities, following New York, have more or less done? New York put the heaviest traffic on stilts, in order to have the light-foot-traffic on the ground. So the heavy, noisy, expensive and light-excluding elevated roads were built.

It would be infinitely cheaper to put the sidewalk up. They would require no more than a bracket and a balcony. They would be cheap and quiet, and would not exclude light and air. Besides, they would make walking safe. Then the street level, including the present sidewalk space, could be reserved for motor traffic and short-side street cars. The freight traffic, on rails or trucks, and the express suburban trains, could go underground.

When we get three-story streets of this sort, life and business in the congested districts of cities may become really civilized. You can get in and out of town quickly and riotously, and you can walk or drive around quickly and safely. And every business building can have two "ground floors," or even three.

EVASIVE DEFENSE—"The business men deny that they are going beyond their legal rights in refusing to sell goods for a closed shop job," says a leading defender of the employers union boycott now under investigation by the attorney-general. "They say that they have the same right to do that as the union men have to refuse to work on an American plan job."

It is not necessary to question either proposition, though the answer is by no means perfect. The right not to buy is more absolute than the right to refuse to sell, and the right to decline to work is certainly surer than the right to discriminate among customers. But the analogy could be conceded, for the sake of the argument, and the answer would still have nothing to do with the case. For the charge is not that certain dealers have boycotted union jobs, but that they have been coerced into doing so by a second-degree boycott of the manufacturers and wholesalers. To defend the boycott is no answer to the charge of extending that boycott to the second degree.

The first degree boycott is legal, for the unions. Let us assume that it is therefore legal for the dealers. But the second degree boycott was declared illegal against the unions long ago. The same analogy would make it therefore illegal and illegal for the suppliers. And this is the charge—not that they have boycotted union jobs, but that they have sought, by boycotting dealers, to coerce them into boycotting. It is no answer to the second charge to justify the first. And since those who make the answer are neither deaf nor stupid, we may be sure that the coercion is conscious and intentional.

JOCKEYING FOR VOTES—The jockeying over the tariff bill once more illustrates the congressional perspective and comparative values. The Democrats are reported as relaxing their obstruction to the bill in view of letting it pass in plenty of time before election. They are convinced that it will injure the nation so much as to make Democratic votes, and since getting Democratic votes is more important than saving the nation from injury, they are going to reduce their opposition to the bill.

The Republicans, on the other hand, are convinced that the bill is a vote-getter and they are therefore pushing for its early passage. If some of its extreme rates should prove injurious to the nation, that will not be found out until after election and there will be time enough to mitigate the offending schedules then.

How many billion dollars of other people's money is a $7500 job for yourself worth?

"EPPUR SI MUOVE"—"Eppur si muove!"—"and still it moves." Galileo is said (and denied) to have said sotto voce when they made him recant his heresy that the earth moved around the sun. The modern Galileo, says it, not sotto voce, but out loud.

When the Nashville Baptist Conference, in Tennessee, demanded that Professor C. W. Davis of the Union University either resign or recant his heresy of evolution, the trustees of the college defiantly recited him, but Professor Davis himself declines to return, and will go elsewhere, where there is no index scintillamur phobibitaurum.

No inquisition, whether Catholic, Protestant or political, now has power over free human thought, except on the most insignificant local scale. A man may be boycotted in his local village for doubting the story of Jonah and the whale, or of the headless babies in Belgium, but the only consequence is the opportunity to move into a more enlightened community.

Hold Americans for Gun Running

EIGHT ARE INDICTED BY JURY

Son-In-Law of Ambassador Harvey In Plot to Aid Irish, Claim
RESULT OF FEDERAL INQUIRY IS BARED
Guns for Sinn Fein Forces Found on Hoboken Pier Lead to Probe

TRENTON, N. J., June 19.—Charged with conspiracy to ship guns to Ireland, Colonel Marcello H. Thompson, son-in-law of George Harvey American ambassador to Great Britain, has been indicted by the federal grand jury here, it became known today.

Seven other men were indicted at the same time.

The indictments were returned several months ago by the grand jury, which was in session from January to April and charged conspiracy to violate the neutrality laws by shipping machine guns on the steamer East Side for use by the Sinn Fein.

The indictments were kept secret while officers tried to locate some of the men named.

Others indicted were Frank Williams, Fred Williams, George E. Rorke, the Auto Ordnance company, a corporation; Frank A. Markling, Frank B. Ochsenritter, John Culhane and one Brophy.

Colonel Thompson already has denied knowing how the 495 guns, alleged to have been manufactured by the Auto Ordnance company, which he is vice president, came to be aboard the steamer East Side, where they were discovered by federal agents hidden last June in coal bunks as the vessel lay in its pier.

Frank and Fred Williams are alleged to have paid for the guns and are said to have fled for Ireland. Ochsenritter is declared to have also been implicated in negotiating the purchase. Markling is secretary of the Auto Ordnance company. Culhane is a truck man, suspected of having carried the guns to a warehouse and Brophy is alleged to have transferred the weapons from warehouse to ship.

RAGS OUSTS FIDO AS MONNICKER FOR DOG

That "Rags" has crowded Fido into obscurity as the popular representative of dogdom, was shown today by an inspection of Santa Ana dog license records at police headquarters.

Time was when Fido was the "Smith" of the canine race. But not now. At least not in Santa Ana.

Rags now occupies the largest space in the dog directory.

No less than four of the Rags family have been licensed here already this year. The list is headed by "Rags" Nelson, aristocratic airleide who guards the home of District Attorney A. P. Nelson.

The dog directory, incidentally, presents an interesting study in names.

There are three Busters, nearest rivals to Rags. There are two Jacks, two Miceys, two named Sophie and two Fox.

The Celtic seems to predominate over other nationalities, with two Miceys, a Barney, a Tom, a Pat, a Mac, a Jerry and others of kindred flavor.

The most unique name taken in the dog census, perhaps, was that of "Pro," who was born on the day that America went dry. "Pro" belongs to Marshall Harolds, 414 East Walnut.

The matter of sex apparently bothers dog namers but little. Take, for instance, Lady, who is a member of the masculine sex; also Beauty, Juno and Topsy.

Other names in the local dog directory include Ted, Pup, Sammy, Reo, Collie, Dick, Buster Brown, Ring, Pinkie, Cootie, Bill, Lady Boston, Chop and Stub.

And last, but never least, is Sharkey, the police dog. Trimmed for warm weather duty by removal of his shaggy coat, Sharkey operates a busy shift on the cat squad.

Sharkey's license record, by the way, fails to record his age. Nobody knew when the veteran malemute first began chasing Eskimo cats up the icebergs.

Bonus Bill Set Aside By Solons Until Tariff Disposed of

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Soldier bonus legislation will not be considered until the tariff measure is disposed of, it was decided at a conference of Republican senators today.

By a vote of 30 to 9, the conference defeated a motion by Senator McCumber, North Dakota, chairman of the finance committee, to lay aside the tariff and take up the bonus for immediate consideration.

After defeating McCumber's motion, however, the conference passed a resolution, 27 to 11, pledging to consider the bonus bill as soon as the tariff was completed.

DOG OWNING ARMY RUSHES TO GET TAGS

At least 100 pedigreed and non-pedigreed Santa Ana dogs never will visit the city pound.

That became known here today as owners of that number of dogs rushed the city hall to meet the requirements of the new city ordinance calling for the registration of every dog in the Santa Ana corporate limits.

Incidentally, the city coffers were swelled to the extent of more than $200.

The registration fees are $2 for male dogs and $3 for females.

W. W. Chandler, city sanitary officer, is equipped with tags for 300 canine pets.

The new poundkeeper, F. W. Faucett, probably will not start dog-catching operations for several days, Chandler said, as his bus line to the city pound is not quite completed.

The ordinance empowers the poundkeeper to seize all dogs of a dangerous nature not muzzled and "any female dog, with or without tags, running at large at certain times."

Any person resisting the efforts of the poundkeeper or his assistants in the pursuit of their duties, may be prosecuted on a misdemeanor charge, according to the terms of the ordinance.

If convicted, such persons will be liable to fines ranging from $5 to $100, or by imprisonment for not less than five days nor more than fifty days, or both, in the judgment of the court.

CHURCHES URGE MOVE TO END MINE STRIKE

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The churches of this nation today urged President Harding to bring about a settlement of the strike of coal miners, now in the eleventh week. Catholics, Protestants and Jews joined in the plea.

GIRL SWIMMING CHAMPION DIES FROM BITE OF GIANT FISH

TAMPA, Fla., June 19.—Terror of a "tiger of the sea" kept bathers in Florida waters close to shore today following a tragedy in which Dorothy McCatchie, champion girl swimmer, was bitten to death by a giant barracuda, or a shovel nose shark.

Mary Buhner, 17, companion of Miss McCatchie on the fatal swim will be recommended for a Carnegie medal for her heroism in holding the dying girl in her arms and signalling for help from shore after the killer had made its attack. Two deep wounds in the girl's leg proved fatal and she died in her companion's arms.

The girls were swimming in the ship channel of Tampa Bay off St. Petersburg, about half a mile from shore. Just as they reached the channel buoy, Miss Buhner was horrified to see her companion drawn beneath the surface by some invisible force. A moment later Miss McCatchie came to the surface, the waters about her stained with blood.

"I've been bitten," she gasped, and she went down again.

Miss Buhner, terrified, kicked vigorously with her feet to frighten off the attacking fish and seized and supported her companion who was rapidly weakening.

A large artery in the McCatchie girl's leg had been severed and she was unable to do more than cling weakly to Miss Buhner's shoulders.

Although nearly fainting herself at the blood and holding her companion, Miss Buhner waved frantically to persons on shore. By the time a motor boat arrived the Buhner girl had held up her dying companion for half an hour.

The giant fish is believed to have been patrolling the wake of gulf steamers in search of food.

TREATY BACKERS WIN IN IRISH VOTE BATTLE

DUBLIN, June 19.—The free state anti-treaty party has won a great victory at the polls in the Southern Irish elections.

Cork, stronghold of Republicanism, has been carried by candidates of Michael Collins. Mary Mac Swiney, sister of the late lord mayor of Cork, was the only Republican candidate elected to the constituent assembly.

The sound defeat administered the Republican forces is expected to be followed by a manifestation by Eamonn De Valera regarding the constitution. The Republican chief-tain has taken his defeat in bad grace and his followers charge Michael Collins with breaking his word regarding the proposed coalition.

Lord Mayor O'Callaghan of Cork, expected to be one of the strongest anti-treaty candidates, was at the bottom of the poll. Complete results for the South will not be known until tomorrow.

ACCUSE PHYSICIAN OF DOUBLE SLAYING

WASHINGTON, Georgia, June 19.—Dr. J. G. Saggus, physician of Wilkes county, was charged with the double murder of his first wife and the former husband of his present wife, by a coroner's jury here today.

Evidence to show that Saggus killed his first wife and Charles W. Wilbank to secure money due on insurance policies held by the two, was introduced.

Poison was the cause of death in both cases, it was stated.

REV. KENNEDY IN PLAN TO QUIT PASTORATE OF U. P. CHURCH

Members of the United Presbyterian church today were discussing with considerable interest the probable future work of the Rev. J. G. Kennedy, following his notice to the congregation at yesterday morning's service that he would present his resignation in the near future.

The announcement came as a great surprise to the congregation and was made without the pastor having taken any of the members into his confidence as to the contemplated step. The notice was tendered at the close of his sermon and just prior to his pronouncement of the benediction.

The Rev. Kennedy was in Los Angeles today, engaged in his duties as teacher of Bible history in the Bible Institute there, a position he has held for the past eight months. He was not available today for a statement as to his reasons for resigning or the work he will take up when he severs his connection with the local church.

Await Formal Step

Mrs. Kennedy stated, however, that her husband's formal resignation probably would be placed in the hands of the church board the latter part of July or early in August. The Rev. Kennedy expects to close his pastorate early this fall.

It is expected that the pastor will later make public his intention as to his future work and the field in which he will labor.

The Rev. Dr. Kennedy has been in charge of the local church eight years and a half, coming here from Pittsburgh, Pa., and assuming his duties January 23, 1914.

The church has enjoyed a good growth during his administration and it was with keen regret that members received his notice yesterday.

Active Religious Worker

He has been an active worker in the religious activities of Santa Ana and has won for himself a warm spot in the hearts of many who are not identified with his church.

It is understood that the Rev. Dr. Kennedy had other employment available at once, but the possibility of still other fields opening to him caused him to make the resignation effective in the fall. Members of the congregation say there has been no friction in the church and that his work has been highly satisfactory.

20,000 HOMELESS AS FLOOD PERILS TOWN

EAGLE PASS, Tex., June 19.—With retreat to the highlands cut off by backwaters, 20,000 inhabitants of the Mexican town of Piedras Negras, opposite here, are huddled on the city's three highest streets facing the river, which is reported slowly receding.

The town is without water and lights and fears of an epidemic of disease are felt when the water subsides.

SEEKS FREEDOM FOR GANGSTER ON WRIT

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19.—Petition for a writ of habeas corpus for Edmund (Spud) Murphy, pugilist, serving time in San Quentin for alleged connection with the so-called Howard street gang affairs of more than a year ago, was filed today in the supreme court by Ernest Spagnoli, Murphy's attorney.

The petition alleges Murphy's 50-year sentence is excessive, cruel and unusual.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19.—The San Francisco speedway, built at San Carlos, near here, less than a year ago and said to be the fastest track in the country, was about 50 per cent destroyed by fire yesterday. Damage was estimated at $200,000.

Miss Alicia du Pont, daughter of Alfred I. du Pont, Wilmington (Del.), ammunition millionaire, will wed Harold Glendenning, of Norwalk, Conn., Oxford student and son of a postal employee's widow.

SENATORS IN 2 STATES SEEK NOMINATION

(United Press Leased Wire)
ST. PAUL, Minn., June 19.—Voters of Minnesota today went to the polls to register their preference in a primary election for offices of United States senator, seats in congress and for state, judicial and county offices.

On the Republican ballot Senator Frank B. Kellogg, was opposed for re-nomination by Ernest Lundeen and Richard E. Titus.

For United States senator on the Democratic ticket Thomas Melch-an, Homer Morris and Anna D. Olson are opponents.

AUGUSTA, Me., June 19.—Bad weather all over the state indicated a light vote in the Maine preliminaries today.

The center of interest is the race for the Republican nomination for senator, in which Senator Frederick Hale is opposed by Howard Davies, of Yarmouth.

Davies has added a great deal of interest to the campaign by appealing to the voters on the ground that, being a family man, he is better qualified than Hale, a bachelor.

PROSECUTION CLOSES IN GOVERNOR'S CASE

WAUKEGAN, Ills., June 19.—The prosecution today completed its case against Governor Len Small, on trial on charges of conspiracy to defraud the state of large sums of money.

Attorneys for the governor announced that outside of presenting a few documents in evidence, they would offer no defense.

No witnesses will be placed on the stand to testify for the governor, C. C. Laforge, his attorney announced.

The defense is expected to ask Judge Edwards to take the case from the hands of the jury. A verdict is expected before the end of the week.

ARMED MEN TO GUARD SUPPLY

Haynes Orders Concentration of Liquor in Few Warehouses
EXPECTS PLAN TO CAUSE BIG SAVING
New Order Permits Bottling to Frustrate Tapping of Barrels

(United Press Leased Wire)
WASHINGTON, June 19.—Orders for the concentration in a few warehouses of all liquors now held in 304 warehouses throughout the country were issued today by Prohibition Commissioner Haynes.

Haynes' order was the first move to carry out legislation recently passed by congress to make the nation really bone dry. Other drastic orders and regulations are to follow.

Haynes acted under authority recently granted by the treasury department appropriation bill.

Regulations permitting the bottling in bond of liquors before their concentration in order to have more sales by cases instead of barrels and thus making it more difficult to "tap" liquor shipments were also issued.

Persons desiring to have their warehouses made a "concentration depot" were asked to file applications with the bureau and affor complete hearings the places where the huge liquor hoardes would be stored would be selected. A bond of $100,000 for the safety and protection of the liquors will be made and a bond of $2.20 per gallon, the present tax rate, must be given before the transfer can be made.

The concentration order eventually is expected to result in a big saving to the government. Out of the 304 warehouses in which liquor is now stored, 124 contain less than 2,000 gallons each and "in many instances the government is paying $300 a month to guard and gauge the spirits in these small warehouses," says Haynes.

Approximately forty million gallons of liquor are affected by the order.

The "concentration warehouses" said Haynes "must be of large capacity, with good railroad facilities available and backed by men of unquestioned integrity so that the owners of the spirits will in every way be protected."

Unusually strong guard forces "armed to the teeth," will be placed around these warehouses.

GLAND PATIENT PLANS EARLY PARIS TRIP

(United Press Leased Wire)
CHICAGO, June 19.—Harold F. McCormick today ordered arrangements rushed for his romantic trip to Europe with his daughter Mathilde.

From his bed at Wesley Memorial hospital where life giving glands of a poor youth were reported transplanted into his body, the millionaire harvester king, directed plans which will take him to Paris within a month. There, after seeing his 17 year old daughter and ward, Mathilde, safely married to Max Oser, her Swiss lover, he will be free to wed the beautiful Ganna Walska, Polish opera star.

McCormick's recovery from the operation has been rapid, physicians reported.

PARIS, June 19.—Two things stand in the way of the marriage of Harold F. McCormick, reported rejuvenated by an operation at Chicago and Ganna Walska, friends of the diva, said today.

The first is that the singer's divorce decree from her millionaire husband, Alexander Smith Coltrah, has not been granted.

The other bar to consummation of the "Harvester king's" romance is said to be Mrs. Walska's ambition. Although reported to have been unsuccessful in recent attempts to "come back" at grand opera, the former prima donna is practicing assiduously.

McCormick, her friends say, wishes her to give up her career.

BEAUTY SEEKS WILD BEASTS; LIKES 'EM BETTER THAN WOMEN

ORDER LIST

TWO INDIAN RHINOCERI
TWO PAIR SNOW LEOPARDS
FOUR MARKHOR GOATS
MENAGERIE FOR DAY TEX

OUTSIDE OF THAT IT'LL BE A QUIET WINTER

SHE WOULD TRUST WILD ANIMALS SOONER THAN MOST WOMEN

BY GENE COHN

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19.—

Have you put in your winter order for wild animals? Better hurry!

For Mr. and Mrs. Frank Buck, who have won fortune and fame in this strange business, are about to depart on their annual trip which this time will take them through the Indian jungles to the shadows of the Himalayas.

On their order book are, among other things, the following:

Two Indian rhinoceri, very rare and possibly extinct, to be delivered to the New York zoo; two pair of snow leopards, very rare; four markhor goats (curly-horned variety) for Philadelphia zoo; and an entire menagerie for the city of Dallas, Texas.

Mrs. Buck, probably the only woman collector of wild animals in the world, finds both pleasurable and profitable the business of populating zoos and menageries.

"There is really no reason for fearing wild animals," she says, adding a bit of philosophy; "I prefer them to the company of most people I have met and I would trust them sooner than I would trust most women."

In dealing with natives in the jungle interior Buck says he has found his pretty wife a good lure.

Few of them have seen a white woman and the news that one is about brings natives from hundreds of miles.

Mrs. Buck has had many perilous adventures and hairbreadth escapes, none of which has had a deterrent effect upon her enthusiasm.

"What of it?" she philosophizes. "I might be knocked down by an automobile or a bandit on the main street of almost any large American city."

MRS. FRANCES LYON SUMMONED BY DEATH AFTER SHORT ILLNESS

After lingering for nearly a week, suffering from the effects of an apoplectic stroke, a peaceful and beautiful death today offered release to the spirit of Mrs. Frances A. Lyon, 69, of 219 1/2 East Fourth street.

Mrs. Lyon had been a prominent resident of Santa Ana for the past ten years, coming here from her former home at Boulder, Colo., to be near her only brother, Attorney E. T. Langley. During that period, since she had been engaged in her profession of nursing until suddenly stricken by her last illness.

She is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Emma J. Bull, of this city, Mrs. Nida Pardun of Los Angeles and Mrs. D. C. Evans of Dayton, Montana, and one brother, E. T. Langley, in addition to many nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be conducted by the Rev. J. A. Stevenson, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, at the Smith and Tutthill chapel, at 10 a. m. Tuesday, June 20. Interment will be made at Fairhaven cemetery.

She was born in Santa Ana, and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lyon.

ORANGE AROUSED AS TOT'S PET IS KIDNAPED

(Special to The Register)

ORANGE, June 19.—Cootie, friend of every child in town and an acquaintance of most of the grown-ups, has been stolen.

His friendliness was the cause of his abduction. Two men came into town Thursday evening, and made Cootie's acquaintance. They lured him into their flashy sport model automobile and dashed away.

But officers, children and citizens in general are on the trail of the flashy car.

Cootie is the liveliest dog with the most waggin'-ish tail that was ever attached to a canine creature. Originally he belonged to John Coffey, an Irish gardener, who lived in Santa Ana last year. Coffey had raised the dog from a mere pup. He had found him in a by-place of this earth, and was told that the animal was half-coyote. So he called him Coyote, and twisted that to Cootie.

His Best Friend Cootie was John Coffey's best friend on earth, but Cootie was terribly noisy. His coyote blood rebelled at confinement. He'd howl his grief every time he was tied up. So Coffey couldn't keep the dog, that was all there was to it. He found him a new home at Orange, and with tears rolling down his cheeks the old gardener bade his friend goodbye.

The new home was at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Craemer and their children. Few newcomers to Orange have made as many friends in a year as has Cootie. His frisky good nature and his sharp appreciation of attention made him a favorite.

Lured Into Auto Thursday night he was at the Den O'Sweets, where two strangers and Cootie scared up a liking for each other. A few minutes later, about 10 o'clock, the new-found acquaintances of Cootie got him into their machine, and despite the cries of one of Cootie's admirers, they "beat it out of town."

Cootie has not been seen at Orange since.

City and County

Word was received here today of the death at Santa Clara, Cal., of J. M. Raney, a California '49er. The pioneer was an uncle of Horace and Walter R. Fine, Mrs. Lottie Grouard, Mrs. Nellie Young and Mrs. I. A. Meacham, of this city. He was known to a number of Santa Anans through visits here with his relatives.

Members of the Orange County Printers' association today were planning to attend the mid-season meeting of the organization at Balboa and Palisades Tavern tomorrow. Accompanied by their wives and sweethearts, who will be the honored guests, the printers are scheduled to meet at Rodgers' Brothers landing at Balboa at 7 p. m. A trip around Newport harbor will follow. A chicken dinner is planned at Palisades Tavern at 8:30 p. m.

The farm bureau fertilizer committee was scheduled to inspect the lime test plots in Orange county this afternoon. Under the direction of Chairman S. S. Twombly and Faria Advisor H. E. Wahlberg, a careful examination of all plots was to be made, with a view to making a detailed report on results at a later date.

Many members of the Orange county Camps of the Modern Woodmen of America today were recalling interesting features of the joint class adoption held at Huntington Beach Saturday night, when a number of new members were taken into the order. The work was put on by the Santa Ana team and lodge officers. Ben Goodheart, state deputy, delivered an address. A banquet followed the ceremonies of initiation. The meeting and banquet was held at Odd Fellows hall.

For the purpose of passing a week in the mountains, Harry W. Lewis, former president of the Santa Ana Walnut Growers' association, left here today for Big Bear Lake and vicinity. Lewis was accompanied by Mrs. Lewis and their son, Ralph Lewis, in declaring that he had lived in California 35 years, admitted that he had never visited the famous mountain resort. "I thought it was about time for us to see America first," he explained, as he finished packing and headed his car toward San Bernardino.

With Mt. Shasta as their objective, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Tralle, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Allender, Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Carothers and John Allender, all of Santa Ana, today left by auto for a trip of two weeks in the northern part of the state.

Members of the Spurgeon Memorial church and Sunday school, South Methodist, today were recalling the pleasures of their annual all-day picnic, held at the county park last Saturday, which attracted between 400 and 500 persons. A basket lunch was enjoyed at noon, after which games and hiking proved popular. Attorney L. A. West, superintendent of the Sunday school, was in charge of the arrangements.

Members of the Church of the United Brethren today were rejoicing over the fact that the congregation is free of debt, following the burning yesterday of a cancelled mortgage for $1000, representing the last obligation on the organization.

FLORIDANS LAUD HOSPITALITY FOUND HERE

Declaring that they were delighted with their trip to Southern California, and asserting that they had picked up much valuable information in Orange county, half a hundred Florida citrus growers who were the guests of L. D. Palmer and other citrus executives, left Anaheim this afternoon for a tour of packing plants and citrus groves in the southern end of the county.

The Florida growers and packing plant executives, who had previously visited San Bernardino, Riverside, Pomona, Ontario and other citrus centers, were escorted to Anaheim from Los Angeles by Palmer and a group of Whittier and Orange county executives.

The party, headed by Captain Edgar Wright, editor of the Florida Grower, included W. B. Gray, Con O. Lee, G. Lamonte Graw, George R. McKee, Louis A. Hakes, William S. Hart, D. S. Borland, W. C. Barnes, Frank Plank, W. W. Scott, William Dettwiler, George Williams and a number of others. Many of the visitors were accompanied by their wives and other members of their families.

Greeted by Fraser
At Anaheim, the visitors were extended a cordial welcome by Malcolm Fraser, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and were entertained at luncheon at the Elks' club. Brief addresses were made by several members of the party. The visitors include some of the wealthiest and most prominent residents of Florida and many of them have visited California in previous years.

After leaving Anaheim, the Florida growers were the guests of L. D. Palmer, manager of the Orange County Fruit exchange, who escorted them to the Santiago packing plant and took them for brief excursions to several of the largest Valencia groves in the county.

"We have been royally received on this trip," said Captain Wright, speaking for the visitors, "and our entry into the California citrus district was made pleasant by the kind treatment we have had at the hands of everyone."

"Our growers and our shippers are keenly interested in the great citrus industry as it is carried on in California, and we will take back many good ideas picked up here. Your great irrigation systems have been a revelation to many of the members of our party."

Wright said sterilization and pruning are two of the subjects in which the majority of the visitors were deeply interested. The growers extended a cordial invitation to the California executives to pay a familiar visit to the groves of Florida.

The Florida group will return to Los Angeles late today. Tomorrow they will study highway conditions in Los Angeles county.

NEARLY WON THE BET
"I'll bet ye $2 I can carry yez t' th' top av th' buildin' in me hod," said Casey.

"Ye're on!" said Clancy.
Clancy got on the hod and Casey started carrying him up. Casey was a heavy-weight and Casey only in the welter class. Also Clancy seemed to grow about 100 pounds heavier at each of the five stories Casey carried him up the ladders.

At the third story Casey staggered, his foot slipped and both men had a narrow escape from destruction. But recovering his breath he managed to get his man to the roof, where they both lay pale and panting.

"I won me bet!" gloated Casey.
"Sure you did," admitted Clancy. "But whin yer fut slipped I tought I had ye!"

Market Report

WALL ST. JOURNAL FINANCIAL REVIEW

NEW YORK, June 19.—Violent upsetting of Mexican Petroleum completely reversed other developments in today's stock market.

At the day's high of 163 1/4, this stock showed a gain of close to eighty points from the 1921 low and an upturn of 17 points from Saturday's close. But the demoralized retreat of the short interest, which such a sensational advance indicated, temporarily impaired the technical structure of the whole market and irregularity cropped out during the hour.

Closing figures left active stocks generally below the levels of the session. Little importance was attached in the speculative community to the threatened railroad strike.

Closing prices included:

CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE
CHICAGO, June 19.—Wheat prices dropped while corn and oats quotations held up well on the Chicago Board of Trade today. The tone of wheat was easy throughout the day with traders showing a strong tendency to unload due to favorable crop and weather reports. There was some heavy buying in wheat, because of the poor crop prospects. Provisions were higher.

CHIROPRACTIC PRINCIPLES

Man is the direct result of an Universal Intelligence and a means of advancing its ends. This force, embodied in all living things, continues their functions until death.

MENTAL IMPULSES

The brain makes and sends impulses over the nerves. Nerve lines to each cell and return are units in the system of brain control of all body parts. With all the nerve structures normal, all the organs and parts are in health.

CAUSE AND EFFECT

The nerves begin in the brain, form the spinal cord, and switch from it by groups in orderly manner through each consecutive pair of vertebrae.

Disease is caused by the hard surface of displaced spinal bones pressing the soft nerve trunks and hindering the current of health impulses through them.

WHERE THE PULL IS THE GREATEST

The spine maintains equipoise, shields the spinal cord and asserts the nerves. It is sensitive to constraints of gravity, as occur in exceptional tensions during work, play, unguarded movements, accidents, abuses of the body, agitation, depression and fatigue of the mind, etc.

The Chiropractor is prepared by special knowledge and skill to locate and adjust displaced parts of the spine. The work is done with the hands, and there is no adverse result with either men, women, growing children or infants.

ANGLERS WROTH AT MARKET FISHERMEN

6 Injured in Week-End Car Crashes

PARTY PERILED AS AUTO FELS PHONE POLE

The injured:
Della Smith, 1515 East Adams, Los Angeles, cut on head.
Queenie Shevers, 1515 East Adams, Los Angeles, leg injured.
Walter Thomas, 1415 East 16th street Los Angeles bruised.
Leland Beatty 1473 East 25th street, Los Angeles, bruised.
Clarence Groves, 316 West Fern avenue, Redlands, cut on thigh.
Half a dozen persons were injured in varying degree, none seriously, as the net result of a similar number of Sunday traffic accidents in Santa Ana and vicinity, according to reports filed today with the local authorities.

Wrecks Phone Pole
Two of the crashes produced all of the injuries, the most notable being that occurring at Seventeenth and Main streets, this city, where an automobile carrying seven Los Angeles colored folk, all peacefully sleeping as their car, slid along the boulevard toward Tia Juana, Mexico, cut down a huge telephone pole and split a tree. Five of the seven were removed to the Los Angeles county hospital.

Clarence Groves, of Redlands, sustained an 8-inch wound on the thigh when his motorcycle collided with an automobile driven by C. J. Mathews, of San Diego, at Tustin, shortly before Sunday noon. Groves is now in the community hospital here.

Various causes were assigned for the Main street wreck, which took place at 4:55 a. m. Sunday as the negroes were traveling south on Main, bound for the Mexican resort. The five injured were passengers in a Chandler touring car, which they were told to have hired for the trip.

L. A. Man Drives
The car was driven by H. N. Moore, 1473 East Twenty-fifth street, Los Angeles. Moore and his wife, both colored, were occupying the front seat and escaped unhurt. The others were in the tonneau.

That the driver must have temporarily joined the others in the nap, was believed by the police to have been responsible for the mishap. A taxicab driver, whose car removed the injured to Los Angeles afterwards, stated however, that there were signs that the party had been drinking.

The touring car was believed to have been traveling at a considerable high rate of speed when it crashed into the pole, which was sheared entirely from its base and was left dangling from attached wires. From the pole the car glanced against a tree, the trunk of which was badly shattered. Wonder was occasioned by the fact that none was killed.

Suffers Gash on Head
Della Smith suffered a long gash on her head, Queenie Shevers received cuts on one foot and Jones sustained injuries to one leg. Beatty and Thomas were bruised and shaken. All were taken to Los Angeles by W. A. Stacy, local taxicab driver. Moore and his wife remained with the car, which was extensively damaged.

Four other collisions were without injury to the persons involved, although several cars were damaged.
H. M. Chramer, of Los Angeles, reported a collision on the road between Anaheim and Buena Park. C. L. Forsberg, 1208 East Second street, Santa Ana, figured in a col-

VAN TRAILER BREAKS MOORINGS, RUNS WILD

Deep furrows in a lawn on North Main street near Nineteenth street today marked the path of a huge van which ran wild with a heavy load of merchandise and deposited itself in the front yard of the J. C. Hamill home.

The van, belonging to the Orange County Triangle Express company, was one of "box car" proportions and was being hauled as a trailer behind another huge van. While traveling south on Main street late Saturday, the trailer broke from its moorings and careened over the curb between two trees in the parking and across the lawn where it came to a stop.

The fact that its path happened at the moment to be clear only accounted for the absence of death and destruction along the way, it was said. The van was later removed with some difficulty to the street.

YOUNG CHINESE GIRL IS SLAYING VICTIM

SACRAMENTO, June 19.—Northern California officers today are without a clue to the murder of a young Chinese woman, whose body was found yesterday on a highway three miles north of Roseville.

Placer county Chinese viewed the body and were unable to identify the girl.

Sheriff Elmer Gum of Placer county, has wired San Francisco police for aid, believing the girl was kidnapped from there and taken in an automobile to the spot where the body was found.

The body was wrapped in a night gown and quilt, and tied with ropes. None of the northern Chinese colonies have reported a girl missing.

BANDITS GET $5000 IN L. A. THEATER

(United Press Leased Wire)

LOS ANGELES, June 19.—From finger prints on articles they handled, police today were attempting to identify two men who, wearing masks, entered the office of the auditor's of Loew's new theater last night and robbed the safe of $5,000.

H. P. Cressman, cashier and manager, was struck on the head and overpowered, and the two bandits, after rifling the safe, mingled with the crowd leaving the theater and escaped. Cressman said the men appeared to know him, but that he could not recognize either.

Hisson on the Newport Boulevard, where a car driven by a Mexican struck his machine, he said.

G. E. Williams, 1049 West Chestnut street, reported that his car collided with another machine late yesterday at the intersection of Main and Nineteenth streets.

A collision at Fourth and Bristol streets was reported by P. Dickerson, of the Woodward hotel.

Three persons were slightly injured in Anaheim last night when an automobile driven by William Fife of Placentia crashed into a telephone pole at the intersection of Center street and Placentia avenue. Mr. and Mrs. William Fife and Miss Ethel Mattock were treated at the Anaheim sanitarium for minor injuries. Fife said he was confused by the fog.

RAIDERS RUIN CHANCES FOR REEL MEN; SURF GAME GOOD

Commercial fishermen off the shores of Orange county are continuing to make sweeping raids upon the fish in these waters, with consequent disastrous results to the amount of game fish available to amateur deep sea anglers.

This became known here today coincidentally with the disclosure that fishing from piers and in the surf of the county's waters is better now than at any time during the past few years.

Fishing statistics assembled from various sources here showed that week-end activities among the anglers were highly successful, taking it by hand and large.

Gets Seven-Pounder
For instance, there was Preston Stroud, who lives south of Bolsa. Stroud maneuvered a seven-pound corbina out of the surf north of the river jetty.

Others in the party with Stroud included Lloyd Blankenbecker, Gus Ward, Bob Hazzard, W. T. Diley and Frank Walker.

These muskel and sinker histers were all rewarded with nice catches of surf fish, it was said.

In regard to Frank Walker, it was recalled that, fishing at the same place a week ago yesterday, he nabbed thirty-five corbina in all. Twenty-five of them were of the large variety.

Lands 5-Pound Corbina
Porter Edmunds, another veteran of the surf fishing pastime, successfully enticed fifteen nice corbina out of the surf at Thirty-sixth street, Newport Beach, yesterday. Theodore Gowdy, who accompanied him, was also successful.

Ask Pointed Questions
"Why, if the Japanese can't use these smaller fish, do they insist on killing them?" the enraged Santa Anans ask.

"Why can't we have a law prohibiting such wasteful tactics?"

City Councilman H. H. Dale today was telling friends of his first catch on the briny deep, following a fishing trip off Newport Beach yesterday. Dale landed a mackerel while help fishing and declared it to be the first fish he ever had pulled out of the sea. He was a member of a party that went out on The Idler, a speedy yacht owned by Roy Russell, L. W. Wilson and Frank Purinton, of Santa Ana.

Trawling and kelp fishing failed to develop a string for any member of the party, three small bass and the mackerel being the full catch. Dale, Russell, Wilson, Floyd Duckham and Horace Fine composed the party.

PRaises Roads IN MEXICO AFTER TRIP

The seventy-mile drive from Tia Juana to Ensenada, Lower California, is one of the most scenic drives to be found anywhere, according to the statement today of Harry Robotham, of the Orange County Auto club, who returned yesterday from a trip to the southern city, accompanied by Lester Tabbs and F. C. Armin, also of the auto club.

The men drove there Saturday afternoon to investigate road conditions. Robotham said that the government maintained an excellent dirt road from Tia Juana to Ensenada, and that it was in good condition, with the exception of a few detours that had to be made on account of hills necessitated by washouts during the winter. The Santa Anans were informed that the government would start next week on the construction of bridges at points where washouts had occurred.

Robotham stated that a report was current at Ensenada to the effect that the Mexican government had definitely decided to establish a dry zone along the border forty miles inland, in which event Ensenada will be the nearest point along the Mexican border at which liquor may be purchased without violating of prohibition laws.

SAY DRIVER DRUNK
In a complaint filed today, Walter Scott was charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. The alleged offense was said to have been committed yesterday on North Main street, Placentia. Complaint against Scott was made by Charles Ballie.

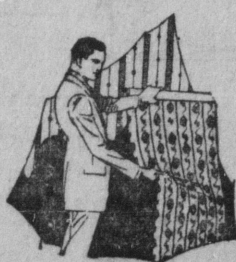

Trade unions, as known in America, are illegal in Japan.

Echoes from Iowa Picnic Held at Birch Park By Orange County Society

Orange county Iowans were today still dwelling pleasantly on the happy reunion with old-time friends at Birch park Saturday when the semi-annual picnic was held with its usual pleasant results.

Morning hours devoted to greeting old friends and making new ones, and a noon hour with the best dinner anyone could wish, led up to the afternoon program arranged by the county secretary, Mrs. Alida Huntington.

With County President George Huntington as master of ceremonies, the program opened with community singing of "America" with Miss Lizette Phillips at the piano and Mrs. Everett White leading the singing. The principal address was that of City Attorney G. H. Scott, who gave a most inspirational talk on law and their duties to their adopted state of California, in addition to upholding her laws. Following the splendid address, Mrs. F. T. Porter gave a most amusing dialect monologue, a negro minister's sermon on "Apples." Mrs. Porter was enthusiastically received and gave two other entertaining numbers, while Jack Langley added to the pleasure of the program with violin selections for which Miss Phillips played the accompaniment. Community singing of all the old familiar songs, led by Mrs. White, closed the program which was followed by a resumption of the morning's "visiting" during which many of the picnicers signed the register.

CONGREGATIONAL
Members of the Missionary department of the Woman's Union of the Congregational church have accepted an invitation from Mrs. Frederick Eley to meet with her, Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 at her West Fifth street home. As originally planned, the occasion was to have been an all-day meeting but was later changed to an afternoon affair.

Mrs. L. M. Smith will conclude the review of the study book of "The Kingdom and the Nation" and other interesting matters will be brought before the members, who are urged to turn out in full force. It has been announced that those who have no other means of transportation, may take the Long Beach Crown stage which will stop at the address, upon request.

Hostesses for the day will be Mrs. Eley, Mrs. G. W. Etchison, Mrs. Mary Emerson and Mrs. William Gehl.

FIRST METHODIST
Miss Beulah Stone will entertain the members of the Young Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the First Methodist church at her home, 712 Mortimer street, Tuesday evening, June 20 at 7:30 o'clock. A pleasant social time will follow the business session.

Local Pianist Featured In Radio Concert Broadcasted from "KZY."

Figuring in a radio concert broadcasted Friday afternoon from the Rockridge station (KZY) in San Francisco, was Clarence Gustlin, Orange county director for the state federation of music clubs and newly elected vice-president of the state federation at the recent convention in San Francisco, which saw the election of the local musician to the office of vice-president. The concert broadcasted by the two talented musicians, was a most interesting one, presenting piano solo numbers by Gustlin who played a gavotte by Brahms, Liszt's "Lieberstraum Nocturne No. 2" and a "Valse Trieste" by Sidelius and a country dance by McPadden. Mrs. Birmingham, who is the possessor of a rich contralto voice, announced her vocal numbers as she sang them, and was accompanied by Mr. Gustlin.

Missionary Society

When members of the Missionary society of the Reformed Presbyterian church met recently at the church parlors, they had the pleasure of hearing two excellent papers on the general topic of "Winning Souls to Christ." Methods in which the result was attained were discussed by Mrs. M. L. Sterret and Mrs. G. N. Greer, the former speaking on "Influence of Medical Missionaries" and the latter on "Influence of Education."

During a social hour which followed the program and the business session presided over by Mrs. Greer, president of the society, Mrs. Arthur Cathcart as hostess, served ice cream and cake to the enjoyment of the members.

MRS. LULA VANN FULTON, ARK.

Suggests to Suffering Women the Road to Health

Fulton, Arkansas.—"I used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a soreness in my side. I would suffer so badly every month from my waist down that I could not be on my feet half the time. I saw your Vegetable Compound advertised in a newspaper and gave it a fair trial. Now I am able to do my work and don't even have a backache every month. I cannot praise your Vegetable Compound enough and highly recommend it to those who have troubles like mine. I am willing for these facts to be used as a testimonial to lead all who suffer with female troubles, as I did, to the right road to health."—Mrs. LULA VANN, Box 43, Fulton, Arkansas.

It's this sort of praise of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, given by word of mouth and by letter, one woman to another, that should cause you to consider taking this well-known medicine, if you are troubled with such symptoms as painful periods, weak, nervous feelings, miserable pains in your back, and cannot work at certain times.

Eastern Stars and Masons, Plan Interesting Week of Merry Affairs

In Masonic and Eastern Star circles, the coming week promises many pleasant affairs beginning with tonight when Hermosa Chapter O. E. S. will entertain in honor of the past matrons and past patrons of the organization. The newly organized Santa Ana chapter will also be honored guests and a special program has been planned for the occasion.

Mrs. A. N. Zerman was chairman of the program committee and just before her recent departure for a visit with her daughter, delegated her duties to Mrs. Neil Beisel, who has the entertainment features in charge.

Thursday night, a dancing party is scheduled for the Royal Arch Masons, who have taken the Balboa pavilion for the occasion. The delightful motor trip to Balboa, dancing to the excellent music of the pavilion orchestra with the salt-sea breeze of the Pacific acting as a huge electric fan, promises an evening of rare enjoyment.

Then on Saturday, June 24, comes the annual picnic of the Eastern Star, when all members of the two chapters and their families plan to gather with well-filled baskets, at Orange county park for a happy day. The occasion is always a greatly anticipated one among Star members, and this year will be the first time that two Santa Ana chapters might gather, although membership will be little changed since Hermosa yielded a number of her members for the formation of Santa Ana chapter.

Orange Nuptials Followed By Elaborate Reception

Following the recent announcement of the engagement of Miss Myrtle M. Rivero, daughter of Mrs. Amelene Rivero of 1023 Custer street, and William A. Snoke of Philadelphia, the wedding of the young couple was a beautiful event of yesterday afternoon at the home of the Rev. Father F. Burelbach of the Orange Catholic church.

As originally planned, the wedding was to have taken place in Santa Ana, but since the Rev. Father Eumelen discourages Sunday weddings he obtained for the young couple, permission from the Bishop of Los Angeles, to have the ceremony at Orange.

The bride's dark beauty was enhanced by her gown of heavily beaded ivory crepe de chine over which fell the heart-shaped folds of a magnificent lace veil. Her flowers were bride's roses with a ribbon shower of lilies of the valley. Attending her were two bridesmaids, her sister, Miss Ethel Rivero, gowned in a brocaded blue satin frock and carrying pale pink roses, and Miss Nita Sistrunk, wearing lovely orchid orandy. Mr. Snoke was attended by J. Ivory as best man, and Jack Dalton. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Raphael Rivero and after the ceremony the party of sixty guests returned to the Rivero home on Custer street, where the bride entered beneath the drapery of American flags.

The home was beautified by quantities of pink roses, sweet peas, and carnations against a background of ferns. The long flower-decked tables were spread in three rooms and a wonderful wedding feast of all varieties of deliciously prepared dishes was served at 5 o'clock.

The evening was devoted to dancing, led by the bride's mother, Mrs. Rivero wearing a handsome gown of beaded black satin, and Achille Descant, uncle of the bride to both of whom the young girl has been tenderly devoted ever since her childhood days spent in New Orleans where Mrs. Rivero's parents came many years ago from Bordeaux, France. After a happy honeymoon trip, Mr. and Mrs. Snoke will make their home in this city.

Pretty Post-Nuptial Event Honors Bride and Groom at F. A. U. Meeting

One of the pleasant post-nuptial events which honored the recent marriage of Miss Pearl Pankey and R. L. Loucks, was enjoyed at the M. W. A. hall last Friday evening, by the Fraternal Aid union, of which both bride and groom are enthusiastic members.

It was declared that never did the lodge rooms look so beautiful, as the decorations of pink and white wedding bells swayed among pink carnations and roses. One of the chief entertaining features was the presentation of a clever one-act play, well planned and amusingly presented, which was especially appropriate to the occasion. This was followed by an adjournment to the daily decorated dining room where delicious refreshments were followed by a talk by Attorney Joseph A. Gardiner who addressed the bride and groom. Mr. and Mrs. Loucks, most appropriately and bestowed upon them as a gift from their fellow lodge members, a handsome cut-glass bowl and a beautiful mahogany serving tray.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Loucks are popular among the lodge members and the romance which had its culmination in the marriage on Thursday, June 15, was really an outgrowth of their lodge associations, where Mr. Loucks, a grand past president, is now instructor for the fancy drills which have been led by his bride. The happy couple delayed their honeymoon trip in order to attend the special meeting, and the following morning, in company with Mr. and Mrs. John Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pankey, Mrs. Alice Cain and William Caseman, motored to Big Bear where the honeymoon will be spent.

Summer Vacation Plans

Leaving early tomorrow morning for San Francisco, Miss Jennie Lasby and Miss Amy Livingstone will motor up the coast, planning to stop en route at Monterey where they will join Miss Anna Hills and Miss Nellie Ramsey for a brief visit before resuming their trip.

Miss Livingstone will remain only for a short stay in San Francisco, but Miss Lasby will spend the summer there, having planned to deliver a course of lectures on astronomy at the Summer School ere her return to Santa Ana in the fall.

Loving Wishes of Friends Accompany Santa Anans To New Ranch Home

Combining the pleasure of an anniversary celebration, with the pain of saying farewell to valued friends, was the social gathering held Saturday at the West Walnut street home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Colvin.

Mr. and Mrs. Colvin recently disposed of their apartment house near the Polytechnic High School, and purchased a ranch near Riverside. They will leave this week to take up their residence on the ranch, and a little group of close friends gathered to bid them God-speed and also to remind them that they were celebrating their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary.

The guests decided to make the celebration, a picnic affair, and the resultant dinner was a delicious one of chicken and all the dainties which properly accompany it. Following the dinner, the afternoon was spent in social chat with many hearty good wishes for a happy and prosperous future for Mr. and Mrs. Colvin in their new home.

Those enjoying the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Snail, their sons, Messrs Ernest and Wendell Small, their daughter, Mrs. Blanche Brown; Mrs. S. W. Clark and Mrs. W. O. Matthews of Costa Mesa; Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Boggs and son Eugene and the hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Colvin and their son, James Colvin.

Household Economics

When the third Household Economics section of Ebell club entertained their husbands at a picnic supper at Orange county park, recently, the coolness and freshness of the park, gave a keenness to the appetites of all present. There was an absence of all formality, and the honored guests seemed to enjoy the occasion as fully as did their hostesses.

Mrs. Fred Robinson as chairman of the committee, assisted by Mrs. R. C. Bowers and Mrs. E. H. Prince, had the one long table decorated with sprays of pink roses, while the menu included all the delicious dishes which Household Economic members know so well how to prepare.

Mrs. Willis of Arizona, who is the guest of her sister, Mrs. G. H. Dobson, was among those present.

Immediately after the close of school, Mrs. Ida Hacklander, 426 East Third street, left, yesterday for San Juan Hot Springs, where she will remain for a two weeks' stay.

Wintersburg and Smeltzer

MUCH INTEREST IS SHOWN IN S. S. STUDY

WINTERSBURG AND SMELTZER, June 19.—The fourth meeting of the Sunday school teachers' training class since its organization was held recently. A decided interest is being shown in the work and a special study course has been outlined. Fourteen books comprise the entire course, an examination being required at the completion of each book. It is a twelve week's course, and the Rev. J. Scott Willmarth is conducting the study. A number of the teachers of the Sunday school are taking up the study with others, who are preparing for the work.

Mr. and Mrs. Buchanan, of Los Angeles, were overnight guests on Saturday of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Gothard. On Sunday Mr. Gothard, Edwin Gothard, Miss Elizabeth Gothard and Miss Ethel Gothard motored to Colton for a day's visit with relatives. Mr. Gothard and Edwin remained over and Misses Elizabeth and Ethel took Mr. and Mrs. Buchanan home to Los Angeles before their return here in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Gothard were in Los Angeles for a day, recently. Mrs. Ada Springel left on Friday for Clovis, where she was called by the illness of her mother, Mrs. Foster.

Russell Alford was the guest of friends in Los Angeles last Sunday night, returning home Monday morning. The evening was passed by Alford and his hosts at Venice.

Entertain At Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Turner, of Smeltzer, hospitably entertained quite a party of friends at dinner on Friday evening. The guest list included Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jones of Smeltzer, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Nulls of Los Angeles, Misses Wood and Eby of Huntington Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Mills remained over for a visit of several days at the Turner home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Bonebrake and family, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Kettler and family and E. Ray Moore and children, Murill, Kenneth, Dwayne and Keith, formed a party to Los Angeles, last Monday evening, where they joined in the capture of grunion on the beach, which was lined with other parties similarly employed. A weiner bake added to the evening's pleasure.

Mrs. Clinton Brush and little daughter, Edith, left Sunday evening for Fresno for a week's visit with Mrs. Brush's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pierce.

Mrs. B. A. Farrar, who submitted to a slight operation at the Community hospital, Santa Ana, recently, is getting along nicely.

Mrs. Robert Turner entertained as her guests on Thursday night her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Laster, of Orange.

NAME FACULTY FOR OCEANVIEW SCHOOL

WINTERSBURG AND SMELTZER, June 19.—The Oceanview school is to remain during the coming term under the supervision of three of the four members of the past year's faculty. Prof. R. M. Harrell, of Santa Ana, returns as principal of the school for the coming year and teacher of the sixth, seventh and eighth grades. Mrs. Catching, of Huntington Beach, will continue as teacher of the fourth and fifth grades and Miss Ethel Eastham returns for her third term in charge of the second and third grade classes.

Miss Frances Elliott, who taught the first grade the past year has resigned on account of ill health and her successor has not been chosen. Miss Elliott will take a year's complete rest in the hope of building up her health. She will be greatly missed in the community as she has been most popular during her two years' stay here, one as teacher of the local school, the other as teacher at Springdale. Miss Elliott left Tuesday for her home in Los Angeles and Miss Eastham left the same day for her home at San Jacinto.

Well-Known Singers Are to Appear In Concert At Church

MAURICE C. PHILLIPS
Orange County Choral union's popular comedian, who is to sing at Wintersburg next Thursday night.

WINTERSBURG & SMELTZER, June 19.—Church members and all others interested in vocal music of the highest standard are looking forward with much pleasure to the concert scheduled for next Thursday night in the M. E. hall, by the "Barbed Wire" Glee club of which Maurice Phillips, the noted basso of Santa Ana, is the featured soloist.

Others in the club are William Phillips, of Wintersburg, and John Phillips, of Santa Ana, brothers of Maurice Phillips; John Chapman, of Santa Ana, and William Howell, of Los Angeles. Mrs. John Chapman is the accompanist. All have donated their services for the concert, the proceeds of which are to be applied to the fund for liquidating the church debt incurred when the hall was built recently.

The concert promises to be the most interesting and worth-while given in this vicinity in years. The presence of Maurice Phillips, alone, is a feature of the program that seems destined to draw a capacity house. Phillips, who is the bass soloist of the Congregational church in Santa Ana, and of the Orange County Choral union, is also a comedian of the first rank and is pleasantly remembered here by those who patronize the Choral union operas for his work as Ko Ko in "The Mikado," as Dick Deadey in "H. M. S. Pinafore" and as the captain of the "Pirates of Penzance."

All of the members of the club are former residents of Boston and vicinity and before coming to California gained considerable fame in Massachusetts in their concert work.

THE FIRST "BOBBY"

Reading somewhere that a modern version of the Bible is contemplated, we were reminded of the Cockney youngster's description of the Fall of Man: "Gawd made a luvly garden and put Adam an' Eve in it. But Eve she pinched a nappie an' she sez, 'Ave a bite, Adam.' 'Naw, sez Adam 'Gawd' sez Eve, 'ave a small bite.' So 'e did. Then up comes a nangel—'Nah, then, you two, ahstide!'"—Boston Transcript.

TALBERT NEWS BRIEFS AND PERSONALS

TALBERT, June 19.—Ed Helm is cultivating his crop of beans which are doing splendidly. Helm's crop, which is among the latest to have been planted here, seems much freer from wire worms than the earlier crops which are suffering considerably from the inroads being made upon them by this pest, which has been worse than usual this year.

H. E. Worthy had his crop on the Minock's land baled last week. The Talbert baling crew did the work.

Several different baling outfits are operating in this community and on the nearby mesas at present. The hay harvest is now in full blast.

S. E. Talbert has the contract for building dikes on the Sunset gun club west of Smeltzer; where 40 acres of new duck ponds are to be made. Work was commenced the past week, the construction work being done with a grader and scrapers.

Charles Holt, field boss for the Anaheim Sugar company, and W. E. Gerhart, for the Santa Ana Sugar company, were in this section Wednesday looking over sugar beet land. They are preparing an estimate of the crops for the entire district under their supervision.

Housewives of the community are appreciating the opportunity offered them to take a vacation from the usual routine of baking during the hot weather period. A Santa Ana bakery started a route through here the past week.

Eugene Barbee, who has been trucking in the northern part of the county, has come home to assist his father with the crop harvest this summer.

Mrs. Hiram Proctor, who has been on the sick list, is now fully recovered.

Mother is Honored Guest.

Mrs. Harry Harper entertained on Thursday evening with a most delightful dinner party honoring her mother, Mrs. Lena Patterson, of Santa Ana, whose birthday occurred June 17.

Those for whom covers were laid at the daintily appointed and flower decked table were:

Mrs. Lena Patterson, the honoree, her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Patterson, of Smeltzer, Mrs. J. O. Harper, Miss Ruth Harper and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Harper.

Mrs. Roberts, who has been absent from home for a number of weeks while convalescing from a severe illness, returned home the past week greatly improved. Mrs. Roberts was first taken to Los Angeles and later, when her condition improved, to the beach where her recovery was quite rapid.

Repairing Road.

S. E. Talbert's road crew and teams are at present engaged on Go third street, which runs north from the Huntington Beach sugar factory. From that point north to the tile factory the road is being torn up preparatory for grading and oiling.

Charles Roberts returned Monday from Temescal, Riverside county, bringing a four-horse team with which he will prepare his 60 acres of leased land for a summer crop. In January when the overflow came Roberts lost his crop then partly in and was forced to abandon the place at a considerable financial loss.

Mrs. Jacob Kozina daughter, Elsie, and son, Joseph and daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett of San Francisco, who were visitors at the Kozina home enjoyed a three days' motor trip into San Diego county where they visited a daughter and sister, Mrs. Jacoby and her husband, who are running a large dairy ranch. On Monday the Bartletts left for San Francisco and were accompanied by Joseph Kozina, who will remain as their guest for a time.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Warner left Saturday to be absent from their home for six weeks or two months. Warner has gone to Mount Baldy where he is employed on a large building contract taken by his brother, Irvin Warner, and other carpenters of Huntington Beach. Mr. Warner is remaining in Santa Ana at the home of her parents during her husband's absence.

Attend Graduation

A number from this place attended the baccalaureate services of the graduating class of the Huntington Beach high school Sunday evening at the Methodist church. Quite a large delegation from here also enjoyed the graduation exercises of the class at the high school auditorium last Thursday evening. THEATERS

VERA GORDON AND MIRIAM BATTISTA

In a Scene From "The Good Provider" Now Showing at the West End Theater.

FATHER COMES INTO HIS OWN IN "GOOD PROVIDER."

If laughter and tears be any criterion of a photoplay's worth, then "The Good Provider," which opened at the West End theater yesterday, is destined to occupy a place at the top of motion picture success. Frank Borzage, who directed "Humoresque," has surpassed even that brilliant achievement in this new Fannie Hurst picture.

Miss Hurst herself says of the picture that it is "a supreme example of how a story may be successfully transferred to motion pictures without throwing the narrative version out of the window."

Everyone who has read Miss Hurst's original story will agree with her commendation of the picture. More than that, they will recognize in it one of the screen events of the year, for "The Good Provider" has more 22-carat humanness about it than any other picture seen in months. This team of Hurst and Borzage works well in screen harness. That was made evident in "Humoresque," substantiated in "Back Pay" and established beyond doubt in "The Good Provider."

"The Good Provider," which features Vera Gordon and Dore Davidson, is an acknowledgment of the family debt to the father, to the man who provides all the creature comforts, a long-suffering man about whom it has not been the custom to grow sentimental.

Davidson's portrayal of the kindly, loving, unselfish Julius Binswanger is as touching and able a screen performance as has ever been done. Miss Gordon, of course, is still the inimitable mother, and Miriam Battista again is the winsome, darling little girl. Vivienne Osborne, a beautiful girl, contributes grace, sweetness and ability and others in the fine cast are, William (Buster) Collier Jr., John Roche, James Devine, Blanche Crade, Ora Jones, Edward Phillips, Muriel Martin and Margaret Severn.

WESTMINSTER

WRECKS NERVOUS SYSTEM WITH HEADACHE DOPE!

Victim Thankful for Recovery After Taking Well-Known Remedy

Any reliable physician will tell you that thousands of people are today suffering from various serious ailments brought on by the use of so-called headache tablets, powders or capsules. These remedies are only temporary in their nature and leave the system in an exhausted condition. Read what one victim of headache powders has to say on the subject:

"I feel that if anyone can recommend Dr. A. W. Chase's medicines I certainly can. I suffered for ten years from severe headaches, and although I took all kinds of headache powders they just relieved me at the time. I became very nervous and run down and everything seemed to trouble me. I have taken eighteen boxes of Dr. A. W. Chase's Tonic Pills and it has made an entirely new person of me. I felt that I could not have lived without them. I do not have one headache now for every hundred I used to have, and my nerves are good and strong." Mrs. Tena A. Smith, Country Harbor Cross Roads, N. S.

Dr. A. W. Chase's remedies can be obtained at any first class drug store. To be sure of getting the genuine, see that the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., are on each box. This trade mark is your protection against imitations and substitutes.

CHAPTER I

To take Mark Sabre at the age of thirty-four, and in the year 1922, and at the place Penny Green is to be a little looking back—a little towards the time of his marriage in 1904, it happens to find him in good light for observation. Encountering him hereabouts, one who had shared school days with him at his preparatory school so much as twenty-four years back would have found matter for recognition.

A usefully arduous person, one Haggood, a solicitor, found much. "Whom do you think I met yesterday? Old Sabre! You remember old Sabre at old Wickomote's? . . . Yes, that's the chap. Used to be a puzzlehead, remember? Because he used to screw up his forehead over things old Wickomote or any of the other masters said and sort of drawl out. Well, I don't see that, sir. . . . Yes, rather! . . . And then that other expression of his. Just the opposite. When old Wickomote or some one had landed him, or all of us, with some dashed punishment, and we were gassing about it, used to screw up his nut in the same way and say, 'Well, what does he mean, you ass?' and he'd start gassing more rot till someone said, 'Good lord, fancy sticking up like that!' And old Puzzlehead would say, 'You sickening fool, I'm not sticking up for him. I'm only saying he's right from how he looks at it and it's no good saying he's wrong.' . . . Ha! Funny days . . . Yes, I met him."

"Yes, in his office I saw him. . . . He's in a good business down there at Tidborough. Dashed good. 'Fortune, East and Sabre' . . . Never heard of them? Ah, well, that shows you're not a pillar of the Church, old son. If you took the faintest interest in your particular place of worship, or in any Anglican place of worship, you'd know that whenever you want anything for the Church from a hymn book or a hassock or a pew to a pulpit or a screen or a spike you go to Fortune, East and Sabre, Tidborough. Similarly in the scholastic line, anything from a birch rod to a desk—Fortune, East and Sabre, by return and the best. No, they're the great, the great, church school-furnishing people."

"Married? Oh, yes, he's married. Has been some time, I believe, though they've no kids. I had lunch at his place one time I was down Tidborough way. Now there's a place you ought to go to paint your pictures where he lives—Penny Green. Picturesque, quaint if ever a place was."

"Yes, you go down there and have a look, with your sketch-book. Old Sabre'll love to see you. . . . Oh, very nice, distinctly. Pretty woman, very. Somehow I don't think quite the sort of woman for old Puzzlehead. Didn't appear to have the remotest interest in any of the things he was keen about and he seemed a bit fed with her sort of talk. Hers was all gossip—all about the people there and what a rum crowd they were. Devilish funny. I thought, some of her stories. But old Sabre—well, I suppose he'd heard 'em before. Still, there was something—something about the two of them. You know that sort—sort of stiflish feeling—sometimes feel in the air with two people who don't quite click."

CHAPTER II

Thus, by easy means of the garulous Haggood, appear persons, places, institutions, lives, homes, activities, the web and the tangle and the amenities of a minute fragment of human existence. Life. An old business. Into life we come, mysteriously arrive, are set on our feet and on we go; functioning more or less ineffectively, passing through permutations and combinations, meeting the successive events, shocks surprises or hours, days, years; becoming engulfed, submerged, founded by them; all of us on the same adventure yet retaining nevertheless each his own individuality, as swimmers carrying each his undetachable bur-cavernous soul. Mysterious journey! Uncharted, unknown and finally—but there is no finality! Mysterious and stunning sequel—not end—to the mysterious and tremendous adventure! Finally, of this portion, death, disappearance—gone! Astonishing development! Odd affair! Mysterious and baffling conundrum to be mixed up in! . . . Life!

Come to this pair, Mark Sabre and his wife Mabel, at Penny Green, and have a look at them mixed up in this odd and mysterious business of life.

Penny Green—"picturesque, quaint if every a place was," in garrulous Mr. Haggood's words—lies in a shallow depression, in shape like a narrow meat dish. It runs east and west, and slightly tilted from north to south. To the north the land slopes pleasantly upward in pasture and orchards, and here was the site of the Penny Green Garden Home Development Scheme. Beyond the site, a considerable area, stands Northrepps, the seat of Lord Tybar. Lord Tybar sold the Development site to the developers, and, as he signed the deed of conveyance, remarked in his airy way, "Ah, nothing like exercise, gentlemen. That's made every one of my ancestors turn in his grave." The developers tittered despectfully as befits men who had landed a good thing.

Westward of Penny Green is Chovensbury; behind Tidborough the sun rises.

Penny Green, like Rome, had not been built in a day. The houses of Penny Green Garden Home, on the other hand, were being run up in as near to a day as enthusiastic developers, feverish contractors (vying one with another and impatient tenants could compass. Nor was Penny Green built for a day. The houses had been built not only by people who intended to live in them, and proposed to be roomy and well furnished and stoutly beamed and floored in them, but who, not foreseeing restless and railwayed generations, built them to endure for the children of their children's children and for children yet beyond. Sabre's house was of grey stone and it presented over the doorway the date of 1667.

"Nearly two hundred and fifty years," Mabel had once said. "And I bet," Sabre had replied, "it's never been better kept or run than you run it now, Mabel."

The tribute was well deserved. Mabel, who was in many ways a model woman, was pre-eminently a model housewife. "Crawshaws" was spottedly kept and perfectly administered.

The only room in the house which Sabre did not like was the sitting room on the ground floor; and it was his own room, furnished and decorated by Mabel for his own particular use and comfort. But she called it his "den," and Sabre loathed and detested the word den as applied to a room a man specially inhabits. It implied to him a masculine untidiness, and he was intensely orderly and hated untidiness. It implied customs and manners of what he called "boarding-house ideas"—the idea that a man must have an untidily comfortable apartment into which he can retire and envelop himself in tobacco smoke, and where he can have his own things around him and "have his pipes and his pictures about him," and where he can wear "an old shooting jacket and slippers"—and he loathed and detested all these phrases and the ideas they connoted. He had no "old shooting jacket" and he would have given it to the gardener if he had; and he detested wearing slippers and never did wear slippers; it was his habit to put on his boots after his bath and to keep them on till he put on shoes when changing for dinner. Above all, he loathed and detested the vision which the word "den" always conjured up to him. This was a vision of the door of a typical den being opened by a wife, and of the wife saying in a menacing voice, "This is George in his den," and of boarding-house females peering over the wife's shoulder and smiling fatuously at the denizen who, in an old shooting jacket and slippers, grinned vacuously back at them. To Mark this was a horrible and unspeakable vision.

The matter of the den and another matter, touching the servants, came up between them in the very earliest days of their married life. Mabel had been busy "settling things," and she took them round the house with delicious pride and happiness. Mark, sharing both, had his arm linked in hers. When they came to the fourth sitting room Mabel announced gaily,

"And this is your den!"

Mark gave a mock groan. "Oh, lord, no den!"

"Yes, of course, den. Why ever not?"

"I absolutely can't stick den." He glanced about. "Who on earth's left those fearful old slippers there?"

"They're a pair of father's. I took them specially for you for this room. You haven't got any slippers like that."

He gazed upon the heels downtrodden by her heavy father. He did not much like his heavy father. "No, I haven't," he said, and thought grimly, "Thank God!"

Mabel opened the kitchen door. "The master's come to see how nice the kitchen looks."

Two maids in black dresses and an extraordinary amount of stiffly starched aprons and caps and streamers rose awkwardly and bobbed awkwardly little bows. One was very tall the other rather short. Mabel looked from the girls to Mark and from Mark to the girls, precisely as if she were exhibiting rare specimens to her husband and her husband to her rare specimens. And in the tone of one exhibiting planned, dried, and completely impersonal specimens, she announced, "They're sisters. Their name is Jinks."

Mark, examining the exhibits, had been feeling like a fool. Their name

The Patchwork Quilt
HAVE YOU A PIECE
TO PUT IN IT?

TOO, TOO MUCH!

We never swiped the pennies from the missionary box;
We never chased a homeless cat up pelted it with rocks;
The neighbor's watermelon patch was sacred from our raid
And eke the blushing apple in the orchard's pleasant shade.

We never went in swimming when our mothers told us no;
We never ate green apples to our tummy's aching woe;
We never fought with other boys
We never used a pony in exams at village school.

In fact since days of childhood we humanized them and relieved his awkward feeling. "Ha! Jinks, eh? High Jinks and Low Jinks, what?" He laughed. It struck him as rather comic; and High Jinks and Low Jinks tittered broadly, losing in the most astonishing way the one her severity and the other her glumness.

have trod the narrow way,
But now we mean to kill a man—perhaps 'twill be today.
We mean to plan a lingering end all filled with pain and woe;
We mean to give a hollow laugh and watch him slowly go.

We'd choose to thrust him, clothes and all, into a vat of oil
And then stand by the kettle and watch him slowly boil.
For he's the cheerful sort o' duck who when June skies are blue
Leers at you as he chortles "Is it hot enough for you?"

It really seemed as though quilting were to become a lost art so far as the Patchwork Quilt was concerned, but here we are again, and here we hope to be for some time to come.

Of course with the hot days of summer, a quilt must be of the lightest to be comfortable at all—and we don't want the Patchwork Quilt ever to become uncomfortably burdensome to anyone, so in addition to the aforesaid lightness, we will discard it altogether except for our Monday issue.

And again we make an impassioned appeal. Haven't you small patches—bright and pretty—as gay in color as possible for a summer quilt, which you will send in? We do run amazingly short of patches sometimes, we'll admit, and would appreciate having bits from your scrapbags.

Let's have a weekly quilting party and sing "Seeing Nellie Home" and all the dear old songs and a lot of new ones which we will make up ourselves. Everybody invited. Let's go.

But that first line was a masterpiece and we were most anxious to see the other thirteen lines, as you will be when you know the one submitted was

"At noon the perfumed flapper—"
When she shows us the finished sonnet, we shall gladly share it with you.

Introducing "Susie Slade"
Susie Slade sent some charming verses not long ago, and one which was more or less personal, we will proudly share with you in the near future. With it was the following pretty conceit—

"YOU AND I"

If I were a poppy and you were the sun,
What a wealth of dreams we might have spun!

I'd flaunt my ruffles of golden grace
So temptingly before your face
Till your heart I'd win and you'd beam on me
The whole day long, and our life would be
A golden song of the dreams we spun—
But I'm not a poppy—and you're not the sun!

Cooked Food Sale

To the women of the United Presbyterian church, it seemed that Santa Ana housewives might enjoy some unusual delicacies for their mid-week dinner tables as well as on Sunday, so a decision was made to hold a cooked food sale on some day other than Saturday and give the idea a trial. Wednesday, June 21 was the date selected and on that afternoon, the church members will present an assortment of deliciously prepared dishes at the D. L. Anderson company grocery, 205 East Fourth street. The sale will open promptly at 1:30 o'clock.

Fresh apples are now being shipped from the north Pacific ports direct to Europe by way of the Panama canal.

TEN TAKE QUIZ IN EFFORT TO ENTER U. C.

Top Santa Ana high school and Junior college students today took the preliminary step toward entering the University of California at Berkeley or the Southern Branch at Los Angeles.

Marking the first time that the examination has ever been given in Santa Ana, questions in subject A, the English test required of all students entering either of the state institutions, were given at the high school this morning under the direction of Mrs. Robert Northcross, English instructor in the Junior college.

Those who took the examination were: Miss Helen Mateer, Miss Lilian Wennstrom, Miss Dorothy Stillens, Miss Alice Marshall, Miss Marvel Baker, Miss Viola Gockley, Miss Evelyn Cooper, Lucine Hertert, Harold Dresser and Wayne Clark.

Give Incorrect Sentence.
The first question involved the sentence, "The books setting on the shelf won't lay flat in the box like these do."

Candidates were required to re-write the sentence, substituting the correct work for setting, lay and like, and to list, with their names, six different parts of speech in the sentence.

Two hours were allowed for the correct words for setting, lay and like, which consisted of an assignment to write a paper of 500 words on one of fourteen suggested topics:

Here Are Topics.

The topics were: Should the United States recognize the present government of Russia; the situation in the building trades in Chicago; the growth of the competitive spirit between nations; how to work one's way through college; Learning how to study; the truth of the saying "fine feathers do not make fine birds"; the advantages of a junior college; modern stagecraft; how the movies could be improved; what is a "good" novel (play, short story); how to make a guest happy; how to raise a good crop of oranges (or any fruits or vegetables); how I learned to operate an automobile (or gas engine); the value of a radio installation.

Instructions given with the test were to the effect that five misspelled words in a paper would result in its rejection.

CONSTRUCTION OF SCHOOLS UNDER WAY

The work of constructing three new school buildings and a school administration building here was begun today.

While the National Construction company was beginning excavations on the East Fourth street and the South Flower street sites, preparatory to starting construction of the new schools there. Bowman and Preble were starting work on the administration building at Sycamore and Church streets.

Meanwhile, E. A. Nee had finished the task of tearing down the old Fifth street school. This will be replaced at Artesia and Hickey street, where it will be used as a Mexican school.

Lumber and supplies were being delivered at South Flower and East Fourth streets.

WOMAN, 50, INJURED IN AUTO COLLISION

Mrs. Petra Ariaza, 50, of Los Angeles, was in the county hospital today, suffering with a dislocation of the left shoulder and severe lacerations of the right knee, as the result of an automobile accident last evening at a turn in the state highway between Anaheim and Fullerton.

It was reported that the driver of one machine involved in the collision failed to stop and render aid after the accident, but no formal complaint had been filed today.

Mrs. Ariaza was riding in the other car with three other Mexican women. The others were slightly out and bruised, but after their wounds were dressed at the county hospital they were able to return to their homes in Los Angeles.

The injured women were brought to the hospital by Fullerton officers.

FILE BATTERY CHARGE AFTER ROW OF YOUTHS

Harry Johnson, of Placentia, today was charged with battery on the person of Earl Chambers, Placentia boy. The complaint was filed at the district attorney's office by Mrs. Pearl Chambers, mother of the boy.

MYSTERY VEILS VANISHING OF OIL WORKER

Whereabouts of Virgil A. Robinson, employed by the Standard Oil company near Placentia, and the reasons for his strange disappearance were unanswered questions which the authorities were today attempting to fathom.

Robinson dropped suddenly out of sight Saturday, his departure being discovered when he failed to keep a dinner engagement with friends in Fullerton, at whose home Robinson's wife and 11-year-old daughter were waiting for him.

Later his abandoned automobile was found on the highway near Northam station and it was learned that, after inquiring at the station regarding trains, he started walking toward Norwalk. There the trail was lost.

Fear Mental Lapse

Whether a temporary mental derangement or unsuspected domestic troubles caused Robinson's disappearance were alternative theories suggested today by the authorities, who favored the insanity theory.

Under Sheriff E. E. French, who investigated the case, was told by Robinson's wife, he said, that the man's home life was happy and that his business affairs were in nowise tangled. The wife was at a loss to account for his disappearance.

Robinson was employed on the Kramer lease near Placentia, but made his home near Artesia. Saturday morning, he was said to have left home in his car, with the understanding that he would meet his wife and daughter that evening at the home of friends in Fullerton, where they expected to take dinner. For the occasion, Mrs. Robinson packed her husband's suitcase with a change of clothing and placed a pair of shoes in his car.

Changes Clothing
Later it was learned that when he appeared at the Santa Fe station at Northam, not having gone to his work, he had changed his clothes. He was carrying the suitcase and an overcoat.

At the station he was said to have inquired when a train would leave for Los Angeles. The train had just gone, he was told. Then he asked concerning a train for San Bernardino and was told it would pass Northam at 9:41 a. m. He did not wait, however, but started at once along the highway toward Norwalk. It was believed that he boarded a stage, but in what direction he went was not even speculated on by the authorities.

Robinson and his family had been living near Artesia about a year. They resided with C. W. Foy, father of Mrs. Robinson. The couple have been married about 18 years.

Robinson was not believed to have more than $20 when he disappeared. Mrs. Robinson, who kept charge of the family funds, it was said, gave him that sum Saturday morning, part of the money being intended for the purchase of a gasoline coupon book.

$35,000 TO BE COST OF UNIT AT HOSPITAL

That the directors of the Santa Ana Community Hospital association have decided to proceed with the erection of a fire-proof hospital building on Wellington street as a unit of a large hospital plant, was disclosed today when notices were sent out to those who made pledges for a building fund in the drive conducted some months ago stating that if they would permit their pledges to stand the directors could construct the new building without asking the public for more funds.

According to the letter, signed by C. A. Riggs, as president, the new structure will cost $35,000, and will be erected on the Wellington street front of the property now owned by the association. The present hospital is on the Washington avenue front of the holding.

The old building will be used in connection with the new. It is pointed out that there has been a steady increase in the business of the hospital and that it is more than paying expenses of operation. The amount of patronage available is declared to be more than twice that which present facilities permit being taken care of.

"Two years ago, following an operation, my stomach went back on me and the little I forced myself to eat pained me terribly. The pressure on my heart from gas in my stomach kept me in misery and I'd have choking spells and get so dizzy I couldn't stand up. Nervous headaches would put me in bed for two days at a time. Then my back got to hurting me fiercely right over my kidneys. I kept losing strength and weight and was so sick and nervous I couldn't sleep."

PAYROLL OF BIG PACKING PLANT TOTALS $1200 EVERY DAY

Villa Park Concern Houses 15,000,000 Lemons as Season's Rush On 150 PERSONS EMPLOYED Many Operations Required Before Fruit Is Ready To Ship Eastward

A payroll of $1200 a day—that is what the lemon industry means in one Orange county packing house! It is the busiest time of the year in Orange county's lemon packing houses, as one may quickly determine with a visit to any one of them.

And the busiest of them all, because it is the largest, is the packing house of the Central Lemon Growers' association at Villa Park. This house is turning out five and six carloads of lemons a day, putting them in trains and starting them toward the homes of sweating Easterners.

There are enough lemons in this one packing house to furnish ice cold lemonade for millions of people. If they should happen to call for a second drink, there would be enough for that second drink, and for a third as well.

Have Millions of Lemons There are literally millions of lemons in the packing house.

Of course, Emerson B. Collier, manager of this largest lemon association, speaks in terms of carloads. Why stop to figure out the number of lemons when he can say nonchalantly:

"Yes, we have quite a lot of lemons in the house now—oh, about 125 carloads!" Figure that out for yourself. The average number of boxes to the car is 400, and the average number of lemons to the box is 300.

The answer? Fifteen million lemons!

Require Operations Mind you, there are 150,000,000 lemons in the association packing house right now. These are all the way from reception at the door to trucking into the cars on the Southern Pacific tracks alongside the house. Some are being handled in the washers, some are sweating and some are being sorted. They do a lot of things to a lemon during its stay in the packing house. Whatever is necessary to keep the lemon to the exact standard of excellence set by this association and by the California Fruit Growers' exchange, of which it is a member, is done.

Link Between Mystery Wire and Recovery of Stolen Car Is Puzzle

Whether there was some connection between a mysterious telegram received here May 21, stating that a car stolen from a Santa Ana man was being used by bootleggers at Everett, Wash., and the recovery of the car itself, nearly a month later, was a question that today puzzled police authorities here.

At the same time it became known that William McLaughlin, who told the Everett authorities that he had bought the machine for $200, was serving sentence in connection with a burglary charge.

The owner was William T. Kirven of this city. Thieves stole it here October 11, last. May 21 Sam Jernigan, city marshal, received the mysterious telegram from Everett. It was signed "Guy Buchner." The chief of police at Everett was unable to find the car or the man, Jernigan was informed.

Saturday Jernigan received a letter telling of McLaughlin's capture and imprisonment.

A. S. Ralph, manager of the Orange County Automobile club, with which Kirven had his car insured, will leave here this week for Portland, and incidentally will go to Everett to examine the car.

By reason of the insurance he carried, Kirven has no further interest in the machine.

MOTHER OF DEAD S. A. AVIATOR WRITES SONG

Lt. McKean's Tragic Death Recalled Here as Music Is Published

The tragic death of Lieutenant J. Egbert McKean at the flying school at Lake Charles, La., February 11, 1918, was recalled here today with the announcement of the publication of the song, "The Mocking Bird's Call," the words of which were written by his mother, Mrs. Marie Egbert McKean, 840 North Broadway, this city.

The musical adaptation is by Prof. Stanley F. Widener, of Los Angeles, and publication is by the Pacific Coast Publishing and Distributing company, of Los Angeles.

Dedicated to Air Heroes.

The poem to which the music has been so artistically set by the composer has back of it a bit of touching war history. The song is dedicated to the memory of heroes of the air who made the supreme sacrifice during the World War.

Lieut. McKean was on a cross-country flight when he met death, his machine collapsing and falling near Jennings, La. McKean was killed instantly and Lieutenant Charles E. Cummings was seriously injured. The accident happened three weeks after Lieutenant McKean had reached that field from San Diego, where he was located during the training period.

Was Student Here.

He had lived in Santa Ana since childhood and went through the schools of the city, leaving the high school in his senior year, 908, to join the navy. Completing his enlistment four years later he became identified with the Aetna Insurance company in San Francisco as claims agent. He enlisted for the World War in June, 1917, and took up preliminary training at the University of California.

MAN INJURED AS CAR, MOTORCYCLE IN CRASH

Louie Valencia, of Olive, was recovering today from injuries received in a crash on the boulevard in front of his home, where Valencia's motorcycle collided with a car driven by Carl Hansen, of Pine Knot, Big Bear Lake.

Hansen, accompanied by his brother, Henry Hansen, was en route to Long Beach at about 7:30 p. m. Friday. They were driving west at Olive when Valencia came out of the driveway at his home and started to turn east ahead of the approaching automobile.

The motorcycle was thrown aside by a front fender of the car, which was brought up against a tree fifteen feet beyond. The front of the motorcycle was smashed and Valencia was cut and bruised, but not badly injured.

Spurgeon Building Clock Intoshikated? Mebbe, the Darn Thing Is Fast

The old clock in the tower atop the Spurgeon building was sober today, with never a haag-over.

But yesterday, the lofty time-piece went on a drunk, got fighting mad, and slipped Old Father Time a knockout blow.

Here is the story:

About 10:15 a. m. yesterday somebody must have bootlegged a barrel or two of moonshine to the old timer.

A frantic waving and circling of hands resulted.

In fifteen minutes the clock, usually so slow and deliberate, covered no less than twelve hours.

Asked the reason for the spree, Old Man Clock replied that it was a dull Sunday, and he did it just to pass the time away.

Anyway, it's a good thing the clock wasn't a calendar, or this afternoon would be tomorrow in the Spurgeon building.

Friends of the clock tried to alibi him with a story about short circuited wires.

SUNSET BEACH WELL IN MUD, OIL STRIKE LOOMS AS PRODUCER

That the Standard Oil company may uncover a new oil field in Orange county, was disclosed today with reports from Sunset Beach to the effect that the company is entering activity in the field on deepening Lomita well No. 1, following a strike yesterday that sent mud and oil flowing over the top of the casing.

Reports from the Standard Oil company today were to the effect that the well would be a producer.

"There is a showing of oil in the well, and indications point to the development of a field at Sunset Beach," said a Standard representative at Huntington Beach today.

"The oil is of a heavy grade, but it is believed that a little more depth will uncover a lighter product."

The well is one of four which the company is sinking on the holdings of the Lomita Land and Water company. It is down about 4500 feet and the three others are of proportionate depths.

News that mud and oil were flowing over the casing in well No. 1 created great excitement at the beach city yesterday and resulted in hundreds of persons rushing to witness the operation of the well.

BEACH CITY TO BE CAPTURED BY BOY ARMY

Newport Beach was trembling in its boots today.

The popular seaside resort was threatened with invasion.

The assault upon the harbor city was to be carried out by a somewhat small but extremely energetic army—

Of boys!

The zero hour was set for early in the forenoon of June 21, which is next Wednesday.

Acting under strict orders to give no quarter to General Glen and his pessimistic cohorts, fully 600 young boys—members of virtually every Boy Scout troop in the county, will swoop down on Newport Beach on that day, confident that the population will surrender without a struggle.

Reconnaissance parties who have visited Newport Beach have procured the information that residents there will leave no stone unturned, after the city capitulates, to give the boys a day of royal entertainment.

The big rally is being arranged by the members of the Newport Beach troop of scouts, under the leadership of Scoutmaster A. J. Twist.

The beach troop, acting as host, will give the visiting scouts a full day of recreation, including swimming, diving and rowing and other athletic activities.

One of the promised features is a boat ride around the bay and a huge "weiner" bake on the beach.

GAS DEALERS IN COUNTY BACKED BY M'PHEE

Seal Breaking Privileges Not Abused Here, Says Weights Official

That local purveyors of gasoline at filling stations, garages or other places where it may be sold are not guilty of abusing seal-breaking privileges, as they are said to be in some other parts of the state, was declared here today by George McPhee, county sealer of weights and measures.

McPhee's defense of Orange county gasoline dealers was made with reference to a complaint contained in a circular letter issued by state headquarters to all county sealers ordering them to withdraw the privileges heretofore accorded dealers, who were permitted under certain conditions to break the official seals on gasoline pumps.

Backs Dealers Here

"The dealers in this county are not abusing the privilege," said McPhee today, referring to the withdrawal order, which stated that there have been "numerous abuses" and that dealers were "taking advantage of the courtesies extended them."

"It has been my practice," said McPhee, "to allow repair men to break the seals on gasoline pumps when repairs were necessary. After such repairs were made, I always inspect the pump personally and place a fresh seal on it."

The withdrawal order was a part of the following circular letter from R. C. Melvin, chief of the division of weights and measures in the department of agriculture:

Claims Seals Broken

"It has been called to the attention of this department that the permission granted by the different weights and measures officials for the breaking of seals on gasoline pumps has been abused in numerous cases, the oil companies or stations apparently taking advantage of the courtesies extended them. For this reason I am at this time calling the attention of all weights and measures officials to the law on this particular subject."

"When a pump operator gets in touch with the local weights and measures officials requesting permission for the breaking of a seal, this permission must not be granted unless said official is in position to make the inspection personally or to send one of his deputies immediately."

"In counties having no local sealer, no seals shall be broken without first consulting the state office."

ST. ANN'S INN IS REOPENED TO GUESTS

St. Ann's Inn was open today.

Completely renovated and with all of the seventy rooms said to be in a better condition than when the plant was originally opened, Santa Ana's fashionable hostelry received guests today for the first time since May 12.

The dining room will not be officially reopened until next Thursday, although the regular Rotary and Kiwanis club luncheons will be held there tomorrow and Wednesday, respectively.

Fills Important Place

"We have found it true more than ever," E. B. O'Brien, of St. Ann's Inn, said, "that the hotel has filled an important place in the community."

"During the month that the Inn was closed we found that the plant was regarded as one of the leading hotels of its kind in Southern California."

The rooms all have been renovated and we are prepared to receive guests again.

"Within three weeks we plan to open a banquet room suitable for different groups to hold meetings with more privacy than has been possible in the past."

Birch Street Entrance

"This room will be situated so that access to it may be had either from Birch street or through the main entrance. We expect this arrangement to prove popular for committee meetings, club meetings and conferences of smaller groups."

"The dining room proper will be ready for guests next Thursday."

HOLDS FUN NOT CHIEF AIM AT PLAYGROUNDS

Noah had it that a "playground" as "a piece of ground used for recreation."

Times would seem to have changed, however, since he indited his ponderous tongue.

It may be that there are occasions when a playground is not a playground.

Hearken to Mrs. T. E. Stephenson, president of the City Parent-Teacher association.

"The idea that playgrounds are carried on merely to provide amusement for the children is erroneous," she said.

Fun Incidental

"It is true, of course, that the children do have fun—so many young ones gathered under such a good influence could not help but have a good time. This is more or less incidental, however."

"The principal purpose of the playgrounds is to care for the children of mothers who work in canneries or other places during the summer. Many of these children are too large for the day nursery, and too young to work. It is on the playgrounds that they are watched and kept amused in a profitable and educational way."

Mrs. Stephenson desired it understood however, that attendance at the playgrounds was not limited to children of these circumstances. Many children spend time at the playgrounds to secure amusement and entertainment, and they are equally welcome, she said.

OUTFALL SEWER CONTRACT MAY BE LET IN 60 DAYS, AVERS ENGINEER

Contractors All Over U. S. Anxious to Bid On Work Says W. G. Knox

SURVEYS COMPLETED

No Serious Delays Looked for In Matter of Getting Rights of Way

With the completion of surveys for Santa Ana's joint outfall sewer, City Engineer W. G. Knox announced today that excellent progress was being made in the movement to give this city one of the best systems of the kind in the Southland.

Knox, who personally superintended the surveys, which extended over a period of several weeks, said that it was probable that bids would be called for and contracts awarded within the next sixty days.

That there is marked interest throughout the country in the plan to construct the joint outfall sewer system, is attested, Knox said, by the fact that he is receiving letters from contractors in all parts of the United States who are anxious to bid on the proposed work.

At the same time the city engineer said it would be impossible at this time to predict just when the system would be completed.

Depends on Conditions.

"That," said Knox, "will depend largely upon conditions that will have to be met and the ability of the contractors to finish the job."

"With the completion of the surveys, a long step has been taken, and the rest will be a matter of hard work on the part of all concerned."

"One of the chief things to be considered, in connection with installing the sewer, is the matter of rights of way. Although we anticipate no serious delays in this connection, it remains for the city attorneys to advise us as to the proper course to pursue."

"Within the next few weeks, I hope to be able to make a tour of inspection with City Manager O. E. Steward, of Anaheim, for the purpose of inspecting the treatment plants used by other cities."

"I do not know just how many men will be employed in the work of installing the sewerage system, but I should think there will be upward of 80 or 100 men actively employed when the work starts."

Will Use Big Pipe

Knox said that, among other things, the construction of the system would require the use of 4 1/2 miles of 36-inch pipe, which probably will be of reinforced concrete.

This type of pipe, the city engineer said, is being used in a number of the leading cities throughout the country and has proven satisfactory in every way.

The treatment plant, to be operated in connection with the joint outfall sewer, will be erected below the Talbert bridge, at an estimated cost of $75,000.

"The outfall sewer, when completed, will be one of the best assets any city could have," said Knox, in discussing the benefits of the proposed improvement.

"Santa Ana, one of the most rapidly-growing cities in the Southland, is going to continue to grow and it grows it will need, more and more, adequate sewer facilities. It is possible that the sewerage system will be completed within

HONOR BANQUET FOR STUDENTS ENJOYED
HUNTINGTON BEACH, June 19.—One of the pleasant occasions of the school social activities was the honor banquet given last Friday at the High School cafeteria. Albert Maddux acted as toastmaster and the guests responded to were surprisingly interesting. They were as follows:
Address of Welcome—Albert Maddux; Response—"Aims of the Honor Scholarship Society"—Mr. Jones; "The Arts in Huntington Beach High School"—Edward Haskell.
(Music, art, drama):
"The Faculty"—Elizabeth Hazelton; "Girls' Athletics"—Theodore Casad; "Boys' Athletics"—Irene Criley; "Detention"—Alice Wilmarth; "The Board's Idea of the Scholarship Society"—Mr. Johnson, Mr. Conrad, Mr. Larter, Mr. Newland.
The Cauldron, the annual year book of the High school, is out and is without a doubt the best work of its kind coming from the graduating class of the school. It is full of interest and pep and the half-tone cuts of the different classes and of the champion track team and their wonderful display of cups and medals form an array of which schools of a much larger city might well be proud.

FURNITURE DEALERS ADD TO SALES FORCE

R. C. Holland and Henry Gill today were in Santa Ana prepared to join the sales force of Ira Chandler and Son, local furniture dealers.
Holland was formerly connected with a large exclusive Los Angeles interior decorating and drapery house, and Gill comes with an extensive experience with leading eastern furniture houses.
These additions to the Chandler organization were made necessary by the rapidly expanding business of this firm, it was stated.

TO ARRAIGN YOUNG
JUNE 28, IS PLAN
Although intimations had been made in official circles that prosecution of A. J. Young, "potato king" of Huntington Beach, who is charged with assault with a deadly weapon upon his wife, would doubtless be dropped for lack of evidence, preparations were still going forward today for court proceedings against Young.

His arraignment was fixed by Justice C. W. Warner, of Huntington Beach, for June 28 at 3 p. m.

HOLDS FUN CHIEF AIM AT PLAYGROUNDS

The details of the summer program are being held up.
In general, however, affairs will be carried on at the two playgrounds much the same as last year. The grounds will be open under the direction of the supervisors from 9 to 12 a. m. and from 1 to 5 p. m. on week days.

Both of the instructors are trained in this line of work, having graduated from schools which include it in the course, and they are considered especially competent for the work.

Whether the annual drive to obtain magazines and books to read to the children will be made, depends upon what course of action is decided upon by the instructors when they arrive, it was stated today.

OUTFALL SEWER CONTRACT MAY BE LET SOON

In six months after the contracts are awarded.

Involves Big Sum
The bond issue which made possible the installation of the sewerage system fixes Santa Ana's proportion of the joint outfall sewer with Anaheim at $172,000. The main sewer lines from Santa Ana to the joint treatment plant were to cost $149,000.

The proportionate costs that each of the cities shall pay for initial construction of the joint sewer and disposal plant is 75 per cent by Santa Ana and 25 per cent by Anaheim, based on the proportion that the volume of sewage from each city bears to the total volume of both cities.

This adjustment of costs shall continue until such time as the volume of sewage from either exceeds the proportion of the capacity owned by such city, with the proviso that in case one city should exceed its proportion of capacity, and the other has not utilized its full proportion, the city short on capacity shall pay the other interest at the rate of 10 per cent per annum on the cost of initial installation in proportion to the amount the extra capacity used bears to the whole.

Balboa

1922 AQUAPLANE SEASON OPENED AT BALBOA

(Special to The Register)

BALBOA, June 19.—The past week-end saw the debut of the rocking, splashing sport of aquaplaning for the 1922 season here when P. G. Hageman piloted his speed boat "Glide" up and down the bay from the municipal pier to the Palisades to the delight of the crowds.

The plane was ridden with much skill by Mrs. Clyde Raine and also by Miss Ruth Goodykumz. Another rider was Ralph Cole, of Santa Ana. Harold Knight of Balboa rode either standing on his feet or maintaining a perfect hand-stand. Many splashed at the turn but the better riders seldom lost control.

Aquaplaning is a form of the Hawaiian game of surf-riding on boards. Lacking the mountainous rollers of the tropics, the motive power is furnished by a motor boat, which tows the plane at a rate of twenty miles an hour, or more, on the straightaway. This speed is doubled by the boat's making a sharp turn, when the plank is brought around on the crack-the-whip principle.

The plane is usually of wood about five feet long and two and a half feet wide, with about three cleats fastened across the upper side, spaced so as to act as footholds. A rope is attached to the right and left prow of the plane, making a pair of reins which the rider is allowed to grasp and steady himself to a great extent, but if his feet and body do not balance in conjunction with it, he is doomed to a watery splash.

Skidding Provides Thrills.
The rocking or skidding motion is induced by pressing down with, say the left foot and pulling up with the right hand, and the rider skids to the right; reversing the order, he skids to the left. It is thrilling to the rider on the plane and thrilling to the spectators, who do not expect to see the rider remain on the board very long.

The user of the aquaplane must be a good swimmer.

PLAN BALBOA GIRLS' PARADE NEXT SUNDAY

(Special to The Register)

BALBOA, June 19.—Assurance is given by Madame La Rue, that the Balboa Girls' parade will be held here next Sunday, starting at 2 p. m. The route chosen is from Balboa dancing pavilion to Bay avenue; along Bay avenue to the Newport Harbor Yacht club; over to the ocean front, and along this thoroughfare to Main street, thence to the Marine Dancing pavilion.

More than forty bathing girls will participate, it is announced. A "baby vamp" will mascot the parade, assisted by Miss Frances Gordon, the only Balboa girl in the group of beauties. Automobiles will be furnished by a Los Angeles firm to transport the girls about. There will be two bands in the parade, Hubbell's orchestra from the Balboa Dancing pavilion and Paul Ortega's jazz bunch from the Marine Dancing pavilion.

It is expected a record crowd will be attracted to Balboa for the annual parade. Every effort is being made by those in charge to prevent traffic accidents.

SUMMER TENT CITY PLANNED AT BALBOA

(Special to The Register)

BALBOA, June 19.—How to house the hundreds who are expected to come here for the annual tournament of lights and yachting regatta in August is a question that is taxing the committee on housing that has been appointed with Commodore Frank Smith and Trustee Richter as the heads.

The only solution, it is said, seems to be in the erection and maintenance of a tent city on the ground donated by the city to its use, lying adjacent to Ninth street and the Bay front. The committee desires to operate the tent city during the entire summer season to enable it to meet the cost of construction which could not be met during the one week of the regatta.

The tent city is to have a large dining tent with cooking facilities.

"BEATING HENRY FORD!"

"NO FACTORY CAN EQUAL sweet clover as a nitrate maker. 'In my distress I decided to consult Prof. S. D. Gromer of the Missouri College of Agriculture. 'It takes nitrates to produce crops.' He declared. 'Why all the fuss about Muscle Shoals nitrate plant? Four-fifths of the air is nitrogen; each acre supporting 34,854 tons. 'Why should a man worry about the nitrogen in sodium nitrate, when there are many tons of nitrogen pressing on his farm?'
FARMERS HAVE A NITRATE PRODUCER—that makes nitrates at $5 to $15 a ton, as well as performing other services."
"I found that 8 tons of barnyard manure to the acre were inferior to green sweet clover plowed under, for the production of potatoes. 'You must sow only good seed. You must inoculate the seed.' Inoculated cow-peas are as good as clover. Plant in June."

RUTH, MEUSEL JINX TO HUGGINS' OUTFIT

American League Champs In Batting Slump as Browns Force Ahead

BY HENRY L. FARRELL

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
New York, June 19.—Commissioner Landis might have given the New York Yanks another pennant if he had not set Babe Ruth and Bob Meusel down for the season.

While the two vaunted backbones of the club were doing their time, the Yanks played championship ball but as soon as the pair of stars returned to the game they slumped until they are now trailing back of the St. Louis Browns in second place.

Up to May 20, when Ruth and Meusel came back into the game, the American League champions had won 22 out of 32 games for a percentage of 68.7. Since the primadonnas came back they have won only 13 out of 28 games.

Ruth and Meusel are both in a batting slump that shows no signs of fading and Ruth has been playing a ragged game in the field. Meusel never was a brilliant fielder or base runner. Ruth is too fat to run the bases when he does get a pass.

The protracted slump of the Yanks on their first Western trip is not only the outstanding feature of the race but it may be the big break in the American league race.

While Ruth and Meusel have fallen down on the Yanks terribly, the Browns have in George Sisler and Ken Williams about the best attacking pair in the league. Sisler is playing the greatest game in baseball today and he may carry the Browns through to the pennant.

Suffering all kinds of bad luck, which seems always to be their lot, the Cleveland Indians are getting back into shape and they are bound to be a dangerous factor. Speaker is back in the game and he means everything. The great Steve O'Neill is back and Stephenson may put on his uniform again soon.

While the Yanks are hitting the bumps, the Giants came out of the spell that was cast over them on their Western tour and they are again working like a great ball club.

The score:
Bellflower . . . 0 0 1 0 0 0 3 1—5

GOLF MAKES HOLE IN ONE IN TOURNAY

FOX HILLS GOLF CLUB, June 19.—A hole in one was negotiated Saturday in the semi-final of the Fox Hills Golf club annual tournament by Joseph G. McMahon, of Sleepy Hollow. The youthful star, who is former Metropolitan and West Chester junior title holder, turned the trick at the fifth hole, 157 yards, with his jigger, to the great delight of the gallery. He put a spin on the ball and the wind helped. The ball dropped six inches from the hole and dropped back into the cup.

NEW GOLFER TAKES PRIZE FOR DRIVING

E. O. McClure, First Time On Course, Leads Way In Club Contest

Appearing on a golf course for the first time in his life, E. O. McClure, one of the new members of the Orange County Country club, walked away Saturday with the men's first prize in the driving contest during the competitions for beginners staged by the club.

McClure scored a total distance of 485 yards with three balls. Smith was second with 369 yards and D. E. Liggett took the booby prize when he missed two balls and his third went out of bounds. W. B. Leecraft had the longest single drive—186 yards.

First prize in the driving contest was a driver; second prize a brassie and booby prize, one ball.

The contest in which iron clubs were used went to Holcombe whose total distance was 354 yards. Tilley was second with 331 yards and Stryker won the booby prize when two balls went out of bounds and the third went 90 yards. The prizes in order named were an iron club, caddy bag and one ball.

The approaching contest for men went to George Martin. Charles Heil was second. Prizes were a mashie and a caddy bag.

The putting contest for men went to Warner; Scovel was second. Prizes were a putter and a caddy bag.

The ladies driving contest went to Mrs. Hoxey who drove three balls a distance of 304 yards, winning a caddy bag. Mrs. Robinson was second with 302 yards, winning two balls.

In the ladies approaching contest went to Mrs. Scovel, who won two balls, while Mrs. Wheatley was second, winning one ball. Mrs. Hoxey won the ladies putting contest.

The board of supervisors tomorrow will authorize the publication of notice inviting bids for the purchase of the $50,000 issue of school bonds voted by the Harper-Fairview school district, recently.

H. B. Woodrough, one of the trustees of the district, announced today.

The school board canvassed the returns Saturday afternoon and found that the earlier count, which gave 158 votes for the bonds and 2 against, was correct. Pay R. Spangler, architect of this city, has been tentatively employed to draw the plans for the new school house, which is to be located on a five-acre site, already purchased. The architect has submitted sketches of school buildings and the trustees are ready to give definite instructions to proceed with drawings and specifications as soon as the bonds are sold and approved by attorneys for the buyer.

As evidence of the rapid increase in population in the school district, Woodrough stated that the school was anticipated that 250 children would register for the next term. The last term opened with a registration of 115 and closed with 175 attending school.

The new school building will not be ready before the first of next year. In the meantime, the present temporary arrangements will continue in effect.

The trustees re-elected the old teachers, Mrs. Mary Bennett, and the Misses Mary Kerfoot, Anna Hawkins and Della L. Stroud. Two new teachers were chosen, Miss Roseann Pierson and Mrs. Blanche Reid. The latter is a resident of Santa Ana.

NO TRACE OF RANCHER.

The authorities were still without trace today of Fred B. Tuffree, Piacentia rancher, who effected his escape from the county hospital while being held for an insanity examination. The belief was expressed that Tuffree had probably carried out his threat to escape across the border into Mexico.

stand, picking out the lemons according to looks and texture.

Great Care Necessary

Great care is used throughout the place in handling the product, for it was long since proven that the strictest standards of rough handling of lemons breaks the pores, and broken pores mean early decay of the lemon. That is why care in handling the lemons begins with the picker in the field and continues through the process until the fruit is nailed tightly in its box.

Everything in that great institution—the Central Lemon Growers' association and its packing houses are indeed great industrial institutions moves like clockwork. Complete organization has been perfected under the management of Collier. The establishment is fitted out with all the labor-saving devices that the lemon industry has developed.

At the present time the association has about 150 persons employed in its packing house. It is running around $1200 a day. Most of the employees live at Orange, and are taken to their work and returned to town in association trucks.

Wrapped in Tissue Paper

Return now, for a moment, to a contemplation of some of the trays of lemons, filled by the sorters and ready to go to the packers whose hands move like lightning as they wrap lemons in tissue paper bearing the association brands.

Each lemon is evenly and attractively colored, so clean that it fairly glistens. On feeling it, one finds that it is cool; it has been in the basement, where an electric fan system is changing the air of the place every few minutes.

In the end every lemon is classified. It goes to its proper tray, and is packed under the name of one of the six brands of the association.

3 Sunkist Brands

The association sends out three of its grades of lemons under the nationally advertised Sunkist brand. Wherever a California lemon is known, Sunkist is a familiar term. The Sunkist brands are Gold, Radiant and Appeal. The house packs two choice brands of its own: Comet and Luster, and one standard, Reflection.

The organization has a membership of 325 growers. Its total output this year will be about 450 carloads. Next year the output probably will be not less than 650 or 700 carloads.

MEXICAN BLAMED AS $20 THEFT REPORTED

Search was being made today by the police for an unidentified Mexican, suspected of having stolen $20 from H. F. Everts, proprietor of a rooming house at 714 East Fourth street.

Everts told Officer H. D. Jaynes, who investigated the affair, that he left the money under blankets beneath the pillow on his bed, yesterday. He had noticed the Mexican man had spent the previous night at the rooming house. He could not be located yesterday after the loss of the money was discovered.

MYSTICISTS CAUSE RUMORS OF EXECUTION

CALEXICO, Calif., June 19.—Despite denial of Mexican authorities, reports that a disturbance at Mexicali Thursday night is directly connected with revolutionist activities in Lower California continued to pour across the border today.

The official statement by General Pablo Macias, commander of the Lower California military, declared that shots heard had been fired during a soldier's debauch.

At the same time no account has been given of the whereabouts of Colonel Enrique Varela, formerly on Governor Cantu's staff, who was arrested in Mexicali that same evening and imprisoned in the soldier's barracks.

Rumors continue to the effect that Varela, who was said to have been out of sympathy with the Mexican government was executed with several other men, similarly accused.

More than a score of shots were heard on the night in question.

HOLD CONSULTATION ON STATE WATER PROBLEM

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19.—Under the auspices of the American Society of Civil Engineers, the civil and hydraulic engineers of Northern California will gather in San Francisco on the evening of June 20 to discuss the water problems of the state.

The guests of the evening will be the consulting board to the water resources investigation now being conducted by the State Department of Public Works. This board was appointed by Governor Stephens in compliance with a bill which passed the last legislature appropriating $200,000 for investigation of the state's water resources.

The board is advising with the Department of Public Works on a very comprehensive investigation. A report will be made to the 1923 legislature setting forth the findings. The bill specifically asks that it be ascertained in what way the maximum area of land can be brought under irrigation and the greatest amount of power developed. These investigations are approaching completion.

The Department of Public Works has had a large force of engineers on this work for the past twelve months. It is probable that the report to the legislature will contain recommendations for action.

EVENING SALUTATION

In breathing there are two kinds of blessings, inhaling the air and exhaling it; the former is oppressive, the latter refreshing, so strangely is life mingled. Thank God when He lays a burden on us, and thank Him when He lifts it off.—Goethe.

YOUNG'S ANNOUNCEMENT

In a straight-forward statement, Lieutenant Governor C. C. Young, of Berkeley, announces his candidacy for re-election for the position he holds.

His name will appear on the primaries ballot in August as a candidate for the Republican nomination. The Register has hitherto declared its advocacy of Mr. Young's candidacy, and in reiterating its belief that Mr. Young ought to be retained in the position he has filled honorably and with distinction in service, this paper herewith publishes Mr. Young's announcement:

I hereby formally announce my candidacy for re-nomination and re-election to a second term as Lieutenant-Governor.

I am just completing my fourth year as Lieutenant-Governor and President of the Senate, after having served six years as Speaker of the Assembly. During those ten years as legislative presiding officer I have endeavored to act with absolute fairness and impartiality, and with such energy and ability as I possessed.

How well I have succeeded in my endeavors I shall leave to the hundreds of Assemblymen and Senators who have served during my ten years as Speaker and Lieutenant-Governor, and to all who have come into contact with the Legislature during that time. It gives me keen pleasure to have received already, from a considerable majority of the present Senate and Assembly, letters expressing a desire that I continue in office for a second term.

I have been especially fortunate in the fact that my work as Speaker and Lieutenant-Governor has all fallen with the administrations of Governor Johnson and Governor Stephens—a period which has given to California more in the way of constructive, forward-looking legislation than has ever been enacted by any other state in the Union. We who took our part in the work of those years cannot help a feeling of satisfaction that this legislation has so justified itself that it has finally won the cordial approval of practically all our citizens. As for myself, I am proud to stand today on these great humanitarian, moral, economic, and governmental problems of our state exactly where I stood when they were being enacted into law.

I respectfully submit to the voters that my fourteen years of legislative service, including a ten years service as presiding officer, ought, at least, to have given me an experience of value to the state. The only way to determine whether the voters consider this experience an asset, and wish me to continue in their service, is again to submit to them my candidacy.

In so doing, I shall not pretend to be making any sacrifice, for I have enjoyed my work as Lieutenant-Governor tremendously and have felt that I was contributing some small share to the welfare of the state. In the past I have tried to give the best that is in me every moment of the time. In the future, I can do no more and shall do no less. My record as a public official is before the voters of California. With full confidence I leave the issue in their hands.

C. C. YOUNG.

BRITISH SOUNDNESS

There has been no more remarkable fact lately in international affairs than the steady rise of the British pound sterling in exchange value. Its normal value is about $4.86. It has risen $1.25 in a little more than a year, and is now within 35 cents or so of par.

Here is certainly a come-back from the business situation in which England was left after the armistice. The war cost Great Britain more than any other country. She poured out money like water, for her own expenses and for loans to her allies. She advanced to other countries nearly twice as much as she obtained from the United States, and there is little prospect of her getting much of it back.

Since the war England has had much industrial trouble. Business has been prostrated a large part of the time from strikes. Vast sums have been paid for wage insurance. There has been a slump there, as here. There have been costly difficulties in various parts of the empire. Ireland has been virtually lost and a source of big expense. Foreign markets have to be built up all over again. There is no sure indication of peace and economic reconstruction in Europe. It might have been expected that British finance would register all this.

The fact that it does not is a triumph for British energy and courage. Britain tackled the job of clearing away her war debris without any illusions or postponements. She refused to try to make both ends meet by making money out of nothing. She taxed herself to the limit, economized where she could, balanced her budget, and went ahead determined to do business as usual. And she has succeeded so well that she is prepared now to begin paying interest on the war loans she obtained from the United States.

There is a convincing lesson in this for other European nations who, tackling the same task less sternly and sanely, are now floundering in a sea of inflated and depreciated currency and resultant bad business. There is a lesson even for the United States. When the British government makes a budget, the British parliament lives up to it.

SAFETY AT CROSSINGS

Among the most recent of drives is the drive fabricated by the railroads for safety at crossings. Publicity avenues of various sorts have been approached in an effort to convince the public that it is quite advisable for the driver of an automobile to keep his eye out for trains.

Of course, this highly valuable and commendable movement is meant to concentrate thought on railroad crossings, but while considering safety at railroad crossings we might also consider safety at street crossings. It is well for us to enjoin upon the pedestrian the safety value of crossing the street at the corner "on the square" and not "on the bias."

At the same time let us place especial emphasis upon the manner in which automobiles cross street crossings, more properly referred to, probably, as street intersections. With perhaps the highest per capita ownership of automobiles to be found among the counties of the state, with a tremendous through traffic, it is particularly desirable that we observe the traffic rules concerning intersections. Our traffic is bound to increase rapidly, and the necessity of "watching our step," as well as our throttles, at intersections will ever grow more pressing.

There are two big things for every motorist to keep in mind at an intersection:

First, it is advisable, and the state law requires, that an automobile be kept under perfect control at every street crossing.

If a man's automobile is under control, he can stop within a yard or so, and if every machine that may come upon an intersection from four directions is under control, there will be no collision.

Second, observe scrupulously the law that gives the automobile coming up to the intersection from your right the right of way. That is, if you approach the crossing from the south, and a car is coming from the east, that car, on your right, has the right of way, and it is your duty to hold back and let the car coming from the east cross ahead of you. Probably there is no rule of the road that is broken any more frequently in Santa Ana than this rule.

PLENTY OF FOOD GROWING

The latest report of the agricultural department promises abundant crops this year, in spite of decreased acreage. On the basis of the condition on June 1, it predicts a winter wheat crop the fourth largest in the country's history, with a total of 607,000,000 bushels. The spring wheat crop is expected to be about 50,000,000 bushels larger than last year's, and the spring and winter wheat together may total 60,000,000 bushels more than last year.

The outlook for oats is 224,000,000 bushels more than last year's production.

Apples, peaches and pears all show improvement, particularly the apple crop, which was a comparative failure in 1921.

As for garden crops, there is no official record; but anyone, in any community, may form his own conclusions. Professional and amateur gardens alike are booming. Weather conditions have been generally favorable.

Clearly, Americans, at least, are not going to lack food this year. And if they don't, the rest of the world won't.

The Value of Dreams

Fresno Republican

We reprint on another part of this page the story of the Texas woman who won a prize for her letter to the Review of Reviews about the O. Henry essays. The letter well worth reading. Not only because of its revelation of what these particular "American classics" have done for one woman, but because of its portrayal of what dreams have done for one woman.

Dreams do something for all of us. Day dreams, the dreams of childhood, the imagination that runs riot. Not necessarily the imagination that goes into far countries and into past ages. There is the imagination that clothes every daily circumstance with a glory that lifts it out of time and space.

The joy that leaps out of some man's eyes, some man that you meet daily on the street, in a humdrum of existence that would seem eternally wearisome to you, does not see the same streets or the same people that you see. Wherever he walks, he sees a sky and a landscape that has been impressed on him by the years of his dreams. His aspirations may have sprung out of some happy incident of years ago, and every day of his life is freshened by some complexing experience of the long ago.

These are his dreams, which mean nothing to you. Are you forming a life of joy out of a world that is tinted by the happiness of your own mental experiences?

Invest in Citizenship

Stockton Record

"A million dollars worth of good citizenship" is claimed by a Chicago Juvenile Court judge, as the returns from an investment in boys' clubs. An old building was secured two years ago in the most congested district and equipped with a library, gymnasium, shower and a swimming pool and good moving pictures. There 900 boys who used to be on the streets in their idle hours with nobody to care what they were up to were gathered in to enjoy themselves and keep fit. The city has since been completely organized and 1500 boys now belong to the club. The smaller ones pay 5 cents a month for the privileges including motion pictures Saturday nights. The older boys pay 10 cents a month.

The practical result has been a decrease in delinquency of exactly 70 per cent. Instead of breaking windows and raising Cain generally these youngsters are kept straight by the simple expedient of giving them something they like to do; giving them companionship, giving them a boost with the right kinds of books and pictures and keeping them off the streets. Possibly there is a hint in this for parents with personal boy problems.

The Fourth Need

Vistula Delta

Detroit is booming again. The Ford schedule for June calls for 5400 cars a day, more than ever before. The other factories show corresponding gains. With production speeded up, and working forces doing perhaps 20 per cent more than they used to, it is impossible to keep up with the insatiable demand for cars here. Manufacturers of cars and parts in other cities have the same story to tell.

Thus the automobile industry leads all the rest in the industrial revival. That is partly because it led in deflation, while others hesitated. It is also due to the increasing demand for transportation facilities.

A philosopher once said that the primary needs of man were as follows: First, food; second, clothing; third, shelter; fourth, transportation. That seems sound enough today, except that the fourth need is more clearly appreciated than ever before. Some may question whether it should come, so far down the list, because without transportation it would be impossible to provide the food, clothing and shelter needed by modern civilization.

Congratulates Santa Ana

Riverside Press

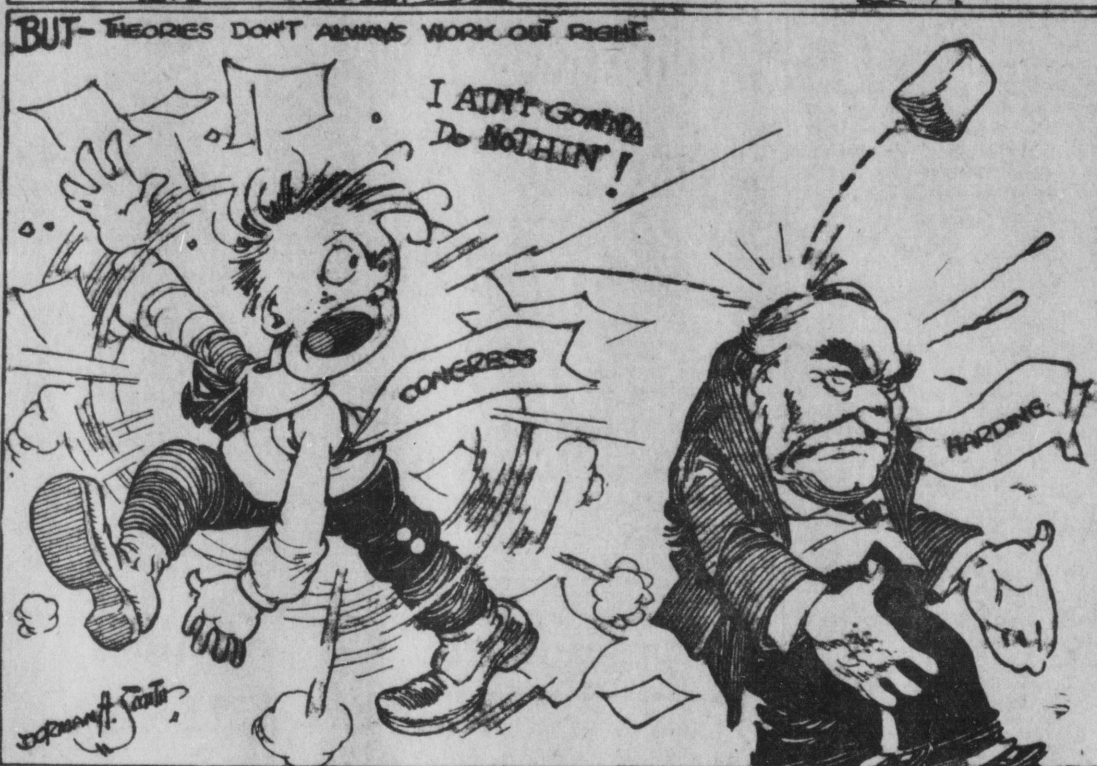

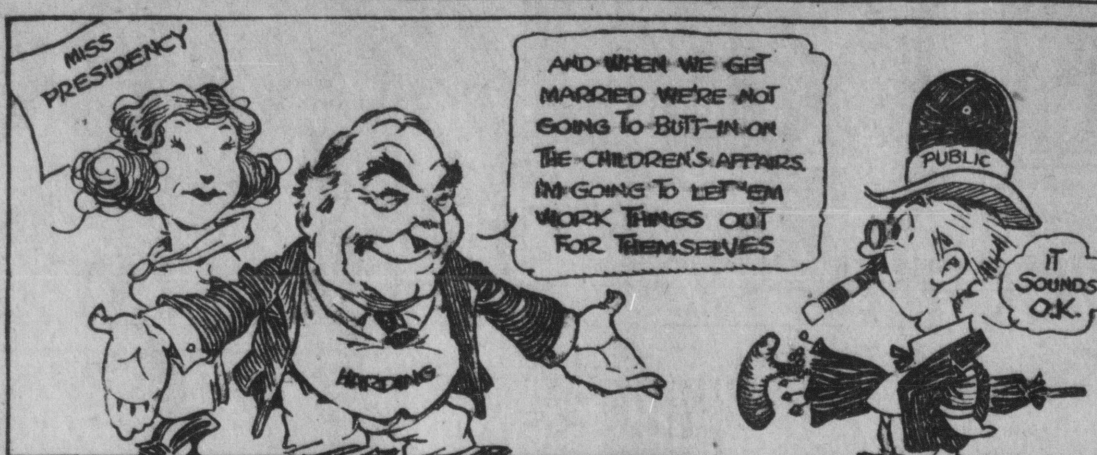

Riverside congratulates Santa Ana on the successful campaign completed in that city last week for a Y. M. C. A. building. The goal of $225,000 was reached with sufficient margin to provide for some shrinkage in collections. The campaign was the finest piece of community effort Santa Ana ever put over and will have a permanent effect in strengthening the spirit of co-operation and community service. The plan which completed will be one of the finest assets the city has. Santa Ana has set a good pace for Riverside that will undertake next year to pay off the debt on its Y. M. C. A. building and to make needed improvements in the plant.

Katz, Leading Hero

Redlands Facts

Sergeant Katz of San Francisco has been suggested as the man for the "Hall of Fame," among California. Katz is doubtless worthy of his high honor. He went out 200 yards in the open amid a hot fire and rescued a companion who lay on the field. And yet, many other Californians did just as fine things. The difference is, they are not known. Ninety-nine per cent of the brave actions of the soldiers of the war will never be told.

It's Easy Enough to Theorize

THE VIOLET YIELDS TO THE ROSE

Each season of the year calls for its favorite admirers. Spring's unfolding and budding—its crocuses, its buttercups, its violets.

Summer's maturity, Autumn's golds and browns, and Winter's silvered snows.

But as Spring yields its violets to the roses of June, it does seem as though Heaven had dropped a few of its choicest odors to make this month, as Lowell has written, the choicest of them all—"For what is so rare as a day in June?"

June—the month of brides and beauty!

But it's the blending of the two months, so unconscious, that makes each so rich in beauty—the tiny, delicate violets, graceful, proud and full of fine family history, bowing as they wither to the royal velvet of the rose.

Life is a cycle of yieldings—youth to manhood and manhood to old age, the day to the night, the shower to the drawing rays of the sun.

All of which suggests to our immortal souls, acceptance and resignation.

And if we go through this little life with such a spirit, I am sure that the worry lines will be few and the life line long.

Nature is so gentle. We would both gain and grow if we only kept closer to her and consulted her various moods.

I shall be sorry to see June go. For to me it is the pearl of the months.

Oh, to be in the wildest country during the month of June! To tramp and explore and just relax among the flowers and trees. To brush through tall ferns and hear the crackle of broken sticks and to feel one's feet spring on the cushiony floor of the woods.

"God's in His Heaven" surely when the violet yields to the rose!

CONTENT

Sweet are the thoughts that savor of content—
The quiet mind is richer than a crown
Sweet are the nights in careless slumber spent—
The poor estate scorns fortune's angry frown;
Such sweet content, such minds, such sleep, such bliss
Beggars enjoy when princes oft do miss.

The homely house that harbors quiet rest,
The cottage that affords no pride or care,
The mean that greets with country music best,
The sweet consort of mirth and music's fare,
Obscured life sets down a type of bliss;
A mind content both crown and kingdom is.

—Robert Greene.

Reminder

You owe me a letter, old friend,
So sit down tonight and come through;

It's months since I've read any missive you've penned
To tell me what's happened to you,
I know how that we're many days
Journey apart.

I know that we're many days
Journey apart,
But still there's a place for you,
Deep in my heart.

So why, why, oh why, don't you
Write?
You owe me a letter, old friend, old friend,

Great Scott, I'm the one that's to blame!
I find that you've written since I did—I bend

My brow to the earth in my shame.
I'm going to answer that letter
you wrote

Within a few days, on the dead (Just now I have only got time for this note);
Believe me

Yours Faithfully,

Fred.

CHANGING VIEWS

Farm Life

A boy's estimate of his parents shifts as the years go by. Up to five or six he thinks them the wisest individuals on earth. He quotes their sayings and considers their opinions final with the preference given to the maternal wisdom.

By the time he is old enough to take his bath alone he thinks over the matter and decides that mother isn't as smart as he thought she was, but father knows a good many things, and often to himself their respective opinions on swimmin', fishin', and going to the barber vs. maternal hair-clipping.

About the time he sneaks dad's razor to his own room and experiments a little with the fuzz on his chin he concludes father is a well-meaning dunder enough, but mother knows less than nothing. Five years later he pities the ignorance of the whole world and especially that of the old folks.

At thirty, about the time he wants to borrow money from dad to cover some of his financial mistakes he thinks father's and mother's advice is pretty good sometimes.

Ten or fifteen years later when he has a lad or two of his own, the old boy begins to wonder why he never appreciated the old folks.

At sixty, when his parents are dead, he idealizes them as the greatest characters of their age and spends hours telling his children how implicitly he always heeded and obeyed the slightest wish or command of his parents and how he ever and always took their advice in the crisis of life.

HEALTH

SOMETHING ABOUT
HOW TO KEEP WELL

No one should go camping without some knowledge of emergency treatment for accidents. A Little Red Cross first aid book is a mighty handy thing to have when somebody breaks a leg, sprains an ankle, or meets with some other physical misfortune.

An elementary knowledge of what to do, however, until the doctor comes, can be carried easily, safely and well right inside your own head.

One who has had a fall or any other accident resulting in shock shows the following symptoms: Pale, clammy skin, weak pulse and weak, gasping respiration or sighs.

Place this patient on his back, cover him up, move him to the best place of shelter at once and, if possible, apply external heat by means of blankets, hot water bottles or hot bricks. But be careful not to burn him. Hot water, tea or coffee are useful stimulants.

In heat exhaustion the skin will be cold and clammy; other conditions much the same as in shock. The same treatment will be required.

The body of a heat victim feels hot and dry to the touch. Clothes wet in the coldest water at hand should be applied to the head and body, especially along the spine, from the head downward. This treatment should be renewed frequently.

Application to the head of cracked ice in a towel is good.

If an arm or leg is broken use splints composed of folded newspapers, pieces of board or heavy pasteboard. Bind into position with bandages or handkerchiefs. If the arm is broken, place it in a sling. A couple of men's ties knotted together will do temporarily. If a leg is broken tie the legs together if no splint is available.

Don't try to set broken bones. Straighten to relieve pain, then apply splints.

A good treatment for poison oak inflammation is a wash of boric acid solution mixed with water, followed by ordinary zinc ointment smeared on the skin. The wound then should be covered with a thin piece of cotton cloth. A thick heavy cloth will create heat and increased inflammation. Washing the inflamed area with common soap—laundry soap is good if nothing else is available.

NEUTRALITY

It was during the empanelling of a jury; the following colloquy occurred: "You are a property-holder?"

"Yes, your honor."

"Married or single?"

"I have been married for five years, your honor."

"Have you formed or expressed any opinion?"

"Not for five years, your honor."

"Journal of the American Medical Association."

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

Enlist Another Aid in Hunt

By Olive Roberts Barton

Nancy and Nick came to Cob Coon's tree in Whispering Forest. Cob lived in the Old Oak across the way from Maple-Tree Flats.

"Tap, tap, tap!" went Nick with Cob's knocker on the basement floor.

But no answer.

"He's too sound asleep to hear us," said Nancy. "We'll have to go to his other door upstairs."

So they wished themselves up the old Oak Tree in their Green Shoes. Cob had his second-story door open for air and his bed close to the doorway. There he was, all curled up and snoring like everything.

"Ahem!" went Nick loudly.
